How Short a Platform?
The Power of Song
Who Was Wrong? No Matter

—By Arthur Brisbane—

(Copyright, 1928, by Star Co.)

GOVERNOR SMITH is said by his friends to oppose any free trade plank in the Democratic platform.

Governor of a State with 6,000,000 inhabitants in one city, the governor knows the connection between high tariff and high wages.

And he knows that an ounce of fact is worth many tons of theory—when the theory is inaccurate.

Mrs. Blair, Democratic vice-chairman, demands a platform "so short that people will read it."

That is impossible, if she means ALL the people. You could not write a platform in one column—no room for statesmen to turn around. Yet 80 in 100 will not finish a column.

The Democrats might write "WE promise to do our best," and then stop. That would be read and applauded. But such satisfying brevity is not in nature.

Birds sang, small mammals squeaked melodiously and men, probably, whistled to attract their ladies before there was any speech. Therefore, song, deeply planted in the brain, is more powerful than prose, and at Roanoke, Va., the political boss, fearing a local stampede to Smith, told the band it must not play "The Sidewalks of New York."

Why the words "Me and Mamie O'Rourke, we tripped the light fantastic on the sidewalks of New York" should stampede a convention is not clear. But they might. "Yankee Doodle" has words even sillier. Think how that song stirs men when fifes play it.

Germans thresh over the war question "who was guilty?"

The side that LOSES is guilty, always. Had the Germans won, which was impossible with their Kaiser, they would not bother discussing guilt. Victory would make it unnecessary.

The French, stabilizing their franc at 25.52 to the dollar, realize that it does not much matter who is right or wrong, or who wins, as regards real results.

The man that owned $100 in French money, before the war, now owns $20. Every owner of pre-war French bonds has seen 80 cents cut from each dollar. And that, after WINNING the war.

War does not pay, right or wrong, winner of loser. An other war would destroy our civilization, such as it is.

If men of power got those facts fixed in their minds war would stop. The would-be war maker would be treated like a mad dog, as he should be. Meanwhile, we should keep prepared, for you never can tell.

Lloyd George says that youth, disillusioned by the war, turns from religion and the church.

Youth has done that often, old age occasionally. But youth and age return to religion. Illusion or faith, whichever you call it is a necessity to 999 in 1000.

Men ask themselves difficult questions and worry when there is no answer. Faith answers everything.

Voltaire's saying, "If there had been no God, it would have been necessary to invent one," describes human beings.

You may dissect the atom and the atom's electrons and nuclei. You may show how a dozen radioactive transformations produce lead from other elements.

Still men will ask, Who made the atoms and the big suns?

NOBILE TELLS OF RESCUE

ARCTIC FLIER REVEALS WHY HE WAS FIRST MAN SAVED FROM ICE FLOES

By GEN. UMBERTO NOBILE

Base Ship Citta di Milano, Virgo Bay, Spitzbergen, June 25 (via Stefani Agency, Rome). (AP)—When Lieut. Lundborg landed near our tent I told him he ought to take off Engineer Natalia Ceccioni on his first flight, then Behounek, then Troiano, then me, then Viglieri and Biagi.

Lundborg refused. He told me he had received orders to take me off immediately, for I could give directions for searching for the others.

He insisted firmly, and the comrades also insisted firmly, that I should leave first and that I would make them more trouble for every eventuality. So I was forced to yield against the dictates of my heart and also to avoid delay.

At the time the plane departed Ceccioni was well. I turned over direction of the group to Viglieri.

I hope to embrace them soon and

Yes, There Really Is a Sun!

Peeping in and out, the sun made a bid for popular approval and relieved the harassed weather man not a little bit today shortly after that individual had made a gloomy prediction for the future.

The sun was out and in again several times during the lunch-hour period, and those who weren't marveling at it from the sidewalks were rushing to office building windows.

The convulsive appearances convinced the doubting Thomases that there was a sun—but did little else toward dispelling the gloom of so many dreary days.

Meanwhile the prediction of the weather bureau struck terror anew into the hearts of those who heard it.

Clearing by Tuesday night or Wednesday, but with a new storm area chasing the fair weather belt eastward and threatening another week-end—this was the forecast. More of it was that probable light the offing, with the wind veering around to southeast and the temperatures rising tomorrow.

The weather forecaster explains that a high pressure area in the Provinces, which has kept the storm zone herabouts, has moved on, giving the multiple storms a chance to ride out to sea themselves.

G.O.P. 'REIGN OF TERROR' CHARGED IN DRY PLANK OF SMITH'S LEADERS

By KENNETH CLARK
International News Correspondent

Houston, Tex., June 25—The Smith forces have agreed upon a tentative prohibition plank which seeks to harmonize the differences between the militant drys and wets, it was learned today. The gist of the plank follows:

Denounces the Republican party for failure to enforce properly the Eighteenth Amendment.

Blames the Republicans for a virtual reign of terrorism in enforcement methods.

Pledges the Democratic party and its nominees to enforce rigidly all provisions of the Constitution.

In his outline no mention is made specifically of enforcement of the 18th Amendment. The Smith leaders argue that is not at all necessary as naturally any presidential nominee would

ARMY OF POLICE GUARD MILLS IN STRIKE 'WAR'

New Bedford, June 25 (AP)—A record number of police were on duty at New Bedford mill gates today to usher in the 11th week of general strike against a cut in cotton mill wages.

Chief S. D. McLeod placed on duty more police than the city has ever had at one time before. His action was not only to enforce order after a week which saw several almost serious disturbances, but to rehearse for the heavy policing anticipated when the manufacturers attempt to reopen mills.

An attempt by manufacturers to resume operations is expected next Monday.

A crowd of 3000 pickets and observers gathered outside the Nonquitt mill and there were big crowds at other places, but there were no disturbances.

Four pickets were arraigned in district court, one appealing a two-months' sentence for a third offence, the others appealing $10 fines. All were arrested for singing on picket line.

FIVE HURT IN CRASH OF TWO B. & M. ENGINES

Plunging from the rails today near Union sq., Somerville, two brand new B. & M. locomotives of the biggest type in use in the East wrecked themselves against a concrete wall, dragged five freight cars to destruction behind them and caused injury to five men, besides completely blocking the Fitchburg division for hours.

The injured men, none of whom required hospital treatment, were:

Judson E. Smith, 50, of Montague, engineer of the first engine.

G. A. Herrick, 67, of Greenfield, engineer of the second engine.

Oscar W. Peterson, 44, of Greenfield, fireman.

O. L. Merrill, 39, of Greenfield, fireman.

Amos Loet, Greenfield, brakeman, who was riding on the second locomotive.

With 27 freight cars in tow the engines were running as a double-header, bound from the Charlestown yards to Deerfield, and were picking up speed from 25 to 40 miles an hour when they left the rails.

A broken part is believed to have hurled the first engine from the rails. It leaped over the other westbound track and crashed against a concrete wall, 339 feet away, in the rear of the American Tube Company plant.

The second engine, following, toppled half on its side and burrowed into the ground as it slid against the wall.

The crews were flung from their places, but had no chance to leap to safety. All received bruises. Both engineers stuck to their posts and Smith spoiled his broken, preventing a worse crash.

About 200 feet of rail was ripped

THOUSANDS IN HOUSTON GREET N. E. DELEGATES

Houston, Tex., June 25 (AP)—New England's "solid Smith" delegation to the Democratic national convention arrived here at 11 a. m., eastern daylight time, today. The special train on which the delegates left Boston last Friday pulled in 60 minutes behind schedule.

Awaiting their arrival were members of the reception committee and a band. As soon as the delegates alighted from their cars they were greeted by committees of former residents of the New England States and escorted to automobiles in which they were conveyed to their hotels after a parade through the main streets.

The arrival of the New England delegates was the occasion of one of the biggest pre-convention demonstrations since the various delegations began to pour into the city for the opening of the convention, tomorrow.

Several thousand persons were assembled at the railroad station and streets through which the parade passed were lined with spectators. The parade was headed by a band and a group of Texas cowboys.

Massachusetts had the largest party in the New England group, U. S. Senator David I. Walsh headed the delegation, which included Gen. Charles H. Cole, Mayor Edward W. Quinn of Cambridge, national com-

Study Data on Warren

Assistant District Attorney Frederick T. Doyle today had prepared a complete copy of the evidence in the trial of Francis Edgar Stanley Warren, wealthy Boston youth, whose acquittal on the charge of causing the death fo Miss Margaret Duehes with his automobile is being investigated.

The evidence was prepared at the request of Attorney-General Joseph E. Warner, who is conducting the investigation, and who asked that it be furnished as quickly as possible.

In the meantime Attorney-General Warner conferred with Sergt. Frank McNabb of the Back Bay division, who investigated the fatal accident and obtained a warrant for young Warren's arrest. The conference at Warner's office lasted half an hour, and neither conferee would comment on what took place.

2 MEN SHOT, 5 CAUGHT IN R. I. RUM BATTLE

Providence, June 25 (AP)—Following a pitched battle today between a band of hijackers and a defending force of bootleggers at Tiverton, R. I., two lone federal prohibition agents seized 600 cases of assorted liquors and champagnes and arrested five men, two of whom had been shot in the leg by the hijackers.

The five arrested men are Herbert Cavaca and Frank Cavaca, brothers, both wounded; Joseph Cavaca, another brother; Patrick Birdwell and Henry Condra, all of Tiverton.

One of the Cavaca brothers told the government man that he believed at least three of the hijackers had been shot. It was reported by neighbors about the Horatius Hart farm, where the Cavacas lived and fought off the hijackers that about 200 shots were exchanged.

BUSHNELL LAUDS JURORS, ELECTION COMMISSIONS

A letter complimenting all election commissioners, registrars of voters and selectmen in Middlesex County for their selection of jurors was sent today by District Attorney Robert T. Bushnell

"I believe there never has been a time in the English speaking world when the system has functioned more efficiently, honestly and justly than at present in this district," said the letter.

ALLEN CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR; FULLER OUT

Governor Fuller will not be a candidate for re-election this fall.

This was definitely established today when Lieut.-Gov. Frank G Allen announced his own candidacy for the Republican nomination for Governor. Allen's brief announcement, which laid at rest a widely circulated report that Governor Fuller intended to seek re-election, follows:

"Assured by His Excellency, Governor Alvan T. Fuller, that he will not be a candidate for re-election, I now announce my candidacy for the nomination to the high office of Governor at the coming Republican primaries."

GOVERNOR FULLER IS SICK WITH BAD COLD

Governor Fuller is ill with a bad cold at his summer home at Rye Beach, N. H., and is not expected at his office until Wednesday. All his appointments for today were cancelled. He has had several heavy colds in recent months.

New Arctic Flier Wins Fame in Rescue of Nobile From Icy Haven

Gen. Umberto Nobile was rescued off the ice floe on which he and five companions had been quartered for nearly a month in dramatic fashion. —International Newsreel Photo

NOBILE IGNORES INJURIES TO LEAD AIR RELIEF PARTY

I hope Divine Providence will allow me to see again the others.

Swedish Plane Hops to Rescue of Stranded Men

Oslo, Norway, June 25 (AP)—Advices from Spitsbergen state that Swedish airmen are starting today from the vessel Quest in an effort to reach Lieut. Lundborg, who crashed on the ice at Nobile's camp off Northeast Land and while attempting to search the stranded crew of Nobile's polar airship.

The fliers said they could find no place for a landing.

For a few days the situation was relieved and then the ice cake, which had threatened disaster since the Italia was wrecked, began to break up. Hourly the peril of the isolated men increased until Saturday the ice was moving freely in a choppy sea.

Then Saturday night the stranded men saw a plane dropping down to their camp, where a tiny tent pitched red guided the rescuers. It was a dangerous landing, but a Swedish pilot, who was willing to risk everything, dared the brisk wind which tossed huge ice cakes about near the little camp.

From the camp five men fought their way to the plane. Five men joyfully hailed the first of the many willing fliers who had sought them out.

NO TRACE OF AMUNDSEN

The ice danger, ignored in the confusion and excitement of the rescue, was suddenly upon them and Nobile was caught in the tossing masses, tons being hurled like pieces of cork about Nobile's camp.

When the others reached the side of the commander they found him suffering from a broken leg and other injuries which made it advisable that he be taken back at once.

Gladly the others saw him lifted into the Upland, saw the motors of the big plane turn slowly, then beat in regular rhythm. The craft skillfully navigated another rise and soared into the air, shot away swiftly away to the south.

Five men were left among the breaking ice cakes, but they had renewed courage and the assurance that every agency at the command of the five nations which have participated in the search would be employed to reach them before the fatal day when the shifting Arctic wind might drive them out to sea. Later the engineer was rescued.

When the Upland started the return flight, the Quest steamed eastward at full speed from Virgo Bay and anchored in Hinlopen Straits, where Nobile was taken aboard.

Nobile, Crippled, Directing Rescue of Marooned Mates

Rome, June 25 (AP)—Advices from Gen. Umberto Nobile, whose injuries from the crash of the Italia will take more than a month to heal, explained why he alone of the party of six had been rescued by a Swedish airplane and taken to the base ship Citta di Milano.

When the Swedish flier, Lieut. Lundborg, descended to the ice floe upon which Nobile's party had been adrift since May 25, Nobile said that the party should be taken off in this order: Natale Cecconi, motor chief, whose leg was broken; Prof. F. Behounek, meteorologist; Filippo Trojani, engineer; Gen. Nobile, Lieut. Alfredo Viglieri, navigator, and Giuseppe Biagi, radio operator.

Lundborg replied that he was ordered to take Nobile off at once so that the commander could give directions for pressing the search for the seven men who drifted eastward in the balloon part of the Italia and the three missing since they started across on the ice on May 30 from the Nobile party. The flier and Nobile's marooned comrades all firmly insisted on this.

The vessel's commander also sent his medical report of Nobile's condition:

"Uncomplicated fracture of right shinbone, now healing. Dislocation of right foot and tendon torn. Also heavy contusion of lower right back with abundant hemorrhage.

"He will probably recover in about 40 days."

Press Hunt for Rest of Nobile's Ice-Bound Crew

Kings Bay, Spitsbergen, June 25—Despite the pain and discomfort of a crushed leg, General Umberto Nobile, rescued from the ice floe on which he was marooned with a group of the crew of the dirigible Italia, intends to lead an air search party for the seven men who drifted away in the battered airship.

As soon as his injured leg was treated on the mother ship, Citta di Milano, here, he began the work of organizing the aircraft for search.

He is confident that he has more than a vague idea of where the men in the Italia may be found as he saw the airship with its helpless prisoners drifting to the eastward.

General Nobile and eight of the crew had alighted from the wind-torn Italia on the ice floe, when, relieved of the weight of these men, she soared again, carrying seven with her, and prey to every fickle wind of the north.

The general has given up all hope of ever seeing again the three men who essayed the desperate venture of walking across the ice to the mainland, and he knows little about what direction Roald Amundsen and his mate of five air took, but he does believe that he can lead the air search party nearly to the place where the survivors of the Italia may be found, if there are survivors.

Officers of the Citta di Milano attempted to prevail on him to rest for a time before he begins the search, but he said that every day meant less chance for life for the men in the Italia, and accordingly he gave orders to have a search party made ready immediately.

The rescue of the general and Engineer Cecioni was highly dramatic.

NEARLY LOSES HIS LIFE

The hero of the daring landing on the ice floe was the Swedish aviator, Capt Lundborg, in the plane Upland.

Air experts said it would be impossible for a plane to land on the treacherous floe, but the brave Swede did it twice. After taking Nobile and Cecioni to Henlopen Strait the aviator returned once more to the floe, and made a second landing, this one nearly costing him his life. The plane was overturned, but Capt. Lundborg escaped unhurt, according to the radio reports, and is now a prisoner with the men he tried to save.

He transferred the injured men to the steamship Quest, and from this ship they were taken again by aeroplane to the Citta di Milano.

For a month the men in Nobile's party kept in irregular touch with the world, urging that plans for the rescue be rushed and fighting the cold and hunger which increased with diminishing supplies.

A week ago two rescue planes flew over their tiny camp — and failed to alight them. Two days later another plane—directed by radio from Nobile's wireless—found the marooned men and dropped supplies, among which was taken aboard.

Sixth Guest at Wedding Feast Is Taken Ill

Chicopee, June 25 (AP)—Alfred Dorval, nine, a sixth victim of supposedly contaminated food served at a wedding breakfast here, was removed to a hospital in Springfield today. Five others previously taken to hospitals were reported as showing some improvement, but are still in serious condition.

Health authorities of the State, this city and Springfield are investigating where the victims are in some instances suffering with typhoid fever.

Twenty-one persons have been made ill with gastro-intestinal ailments blamed on food eaten at the wedding and of these one, Wilfred Beaupre, brother of the bridegroom, died Tuesday of peritonitis. The bridegroom, Eugene Beaupre, is among those made ill. About half of the 65 wedding guests have been inoculated against typhoid fever.

COUNT OF VOTES KILLS HOPE OF SMITH'S FOES

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Correspondent

Houston, Tex., June 25—The desperately struggling Anti-Smith leaders in the Democratic national convention conducted a new count of noses today, 24 hours before the gavel falls and then gave up all hope of stopping the New York Governor.

The cold figures, checked and rechecked by the weary and dejected opponent of Smith, showed that unless the day of political miracles is past, Governor Smith will have a minimum of 750 votes on the second ballot.

As the great mass of delegates poured into Houston today by train, boat and motor, there were rumblings that indicted Smith may get a good many scattering votes from Southern states that his managers have regarded as unfriendly territory. Six of Virginia's 24 votes, for example, were reported ready to go for Smith on the first ballot, or whenever the Governor's managers want them called in; Eighteen of Indiana's 30 were said to be ready to go for Smith as soon as released by Evans Woollen, the Hoosier favorite son.

The road seemed to be opening up for a band wagon movement that threatens to sweep everything in front of it, just as at Kansas City, where the Hoover band wagon could hardly provide space for all who wished to clamber on.

Only Senator Jim Reed of Missouri, Gov. Dan Moody of Texas, Senator Walter F. George of Georgia, and Dan Roper of North Carolina, were left today to carry on the fight against the seeming inevitability of it all. They constituted themselves the Four Horsemen of the anti-Smith Movement, but they admittedly were making very little headway.

NEW FREAK MUSEUM IS PLANNED IN HUB

The famed Austin & Stone Museum, which closed its doors and parted with its various freaks several years ago, is to have a duplicate in the fall, it was learned today. Not on the old site in Scollay sq., of course, for the march of progress has placed there a business structure, but around the corner in Hanover st., the new Austin & Stone Museum will be opened in September, it is understood.

Also understood is it that the globe has been secured for freaks and that there has been secured a lecturer on a par with old and picturesque Prof. J. Hutchins, whose harangue was world-famous.

OPEN DRIVE ON BAG GRABBERS

A special police campaign to rid the city of snatch thieves was inaugurated today as a result of repeated bag snatchings in Mattapan, Roxbury and Roslindale, Superintendent Michael H. Crowley, admitted. How many police are engaged and the manner of their work he declined to state.

Women have been molested a dozen times within the month in the above-named districts, and in one case the snatch thief fired a shot at a man who ran to his victim's assistance.

In most cases the thieves are working from stolen cars, the superintendent said.

40 INJURED AS TRAIN PLUNGES FROM BRIDGE

Iola, Kas., June 25 (AP)—Forty persons were injured, five of them dangerously, when three cars of the "Southerner," fast Missouri Pacific train bound from New Orleans to Kansas City, was derailed near Durand, Kas., 16 miles west of here, at 4 a. m. today.

Twenty-six injured were brought to St. John's Hospital here. Fourteen others were able to continue their trip.

A broken rail was believed to have caused the wreck. Several hundred feet of track was torn up.

Most of the injured were in a steel chair car, which plunged 20 feet from the Owl Creek bridge and lodged between the banks of the stream above the water. Two steel Pullman cars were overturned.

SPEEDY JUSTICE IS COMMENDED

Since Oct. 1 the Suffolk Superior Court has disposed of 6384 cases, it was reported today by Clerk Campbell to the district attorney's office.

The report paid tribute to Judge Fosdick and Dist. Atty. Foley for the manner in which criminal cases have been expedited.

"Had it not been for the manner in which cases were handled, both in the district attorney's office and in the assignment session of the court," said Clerk Campbell's report, "the fact that there have been several trials lately which have lasted from several days to a fortnight, would have made our docket top-heavy with untried cases."

DRY PLANK OF SMITH LEADERS CHARGES G. O. P. TERRORISM

pledge himself to enforce all laws on the statute books even should he favor modification or repeal of some particular provision.

Such a plank, the Smith leaders declared today, would not embarrass Governor Smith and should suit all the drys except that militant group which is seeking an out and out endorsement of the "moral righteousness" of prohibition.

Meantime everybody here faces a record heat wave. The temperature was above 90 today, with humidity at 91, and both climbing.

Because of this it was decided today that the convention after formal opening tomorrow, at noon, will adjourn to 7 p. m. (9 p. m. Boston time), when the keynote speech of the temporary chairman, Claude G. Bowers of New York, will be delivered.

Members of the Smith camp have been burning the midnight oil in trying to evolve some plan to soothe the omnipresent prohibition row. The latest arrivals in the New York delegation, some of whom have recently talked to Governor Smith, brought out the suggested plank.

As a gesture to the wets, some of the New York leaders close to Governor Smith are planning to make a fight for liberalization of the Volstead act. It probably will be confined to the resolutions committee and not carried to the floor to stir up a hornet's nest.

From the camp of the drys came today a prohibition plank proposed by Senator Caraway of Arkansas which is understood to have considerable support. It follows:

"The Republican, party, in its convention assembled at Kansas City, pledged itself for political purposes only to uphold the 18th amendment.

"But in good faith the Democratic party pledges itself not only to uphold the 18th amendment and all laws made pursuant thereto, but likewise the Constitution and all other laws of our land."

FOR FARM PLANK

As a result of numerous week-end conferences, no serious trouble is anticipated over the farm relief plan. The corn belt leaders are jubilant over the prospects.

The plank, as proposed by agricultural representatives and approved by a number of influential party leaders, will condemn the Coolidge administration for failure to enact proper remedial legislation, will request an extra session of Congress in March to sit until an acceptable farm bill is enacted, and, further, will indorse by inference the equalization fee principle for control of farm surpluses without specifically naming the McNary-Haugen bill.

It was at a meeting of the Democratic national committee today that decision was reached to adjourn the convention after a formal call to order tomorrow until evening so that the keynote speech of Bowers may be heard over the radio. George Brennan of Illinois led the drive, saying:

"The farmers of the Middle West, who were kicked out of Kansas City, are looking to this convention for relief. They were put farther into the hole by the selection of Herbert Hoover, the arch enemy of agriculture."

"Let us give the farmers a chance to hear this speech over the radio. We have plenty of time. It took us three weeks in Madison Sq. Garden, but it looks as if three days would be sufficient here."

"I agree with the idea," said Clem Shaver, committee chairman, "because if the same heat of the last few days is any criterion, it will be pretty hot in the hall at midday tomorrow."

The committee, with a whoop, ratified Bowers' selection as temporary chairman and keynoter, and then quickly approved all other temporary officers.

Other news of the convention on Pages 8 and 9.

MOODY BALKS AT WET PLANK

Houston, Tex., June 25 (INS)—"Any quibbling on this matter is unthinkable."

Such was a statement issued today by Governor Dan Moody, sounding the Texas keynote on prohibition.

The Governor declared "the serious thought of the South is in favor of prohibition and its enforcement" and "I do not believe delegates from other sections of the country will be controlled by the enemy views of a few placed in this nation that are opposed to prohibition."

Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, and Josephus Daniels, naval secretary in Wilson's cabinet, also refuse to quit fighting for a dry platform. Glass won't vote for Smith.

up. The first freight car was swung sideways and blocked all four tracks, both east and westbound. The two next cars were reduced to kindling.

A fourth car landed on top of this wreckage and a fifth followed the engines, coming with one end on the ground and the other on the wall.

Trains were re-routed by railroad officials who declared it might take six hours to clear the Fitchburg division.

The locomotives are of the Mikado type, weighing 240 tons each, and were recently purchased to speed up freight shipments. It may be several days, according to railroad men, before they can be removed.

Maddening Monotony By De Beck

IF THOSE THAT ENVY ME BECAUSE OF MY MILLIONS ONLY KNEW HOW UNHAPPY I AM —
DAY AFTER DAY, LIFE IS THE SAME; EVERY HOUR SEEMS AN ETERNITY — SOMETIMES I THINK I SHALL GO MAD FROM THE MONOTONY OF IT — IF THE BILLYGOATS DON'T HOLD THEIR BUTTING AND PASS ON MY APPLICATION SOON I DON'T KNOW WHAT I'LL DO —
SAME SAD STORY
I'M TOO NERVOUS TO SIT IN THE CLUB ANY LONGER — I THINK I'LL GO HOME — PERHAPS MR. GOOGLE WILL DROP IN WITH SOME GOOD NEWS
NO, SIR, I'M SORRY TO SAY, SIR. MR. GOOGLE HAS NOT BEEN HERE!
THIS IS A DREADFUL DISAPPOINTMENT — I WAS SURE TO HEAR FROM HIM TODAY — I WONDER WHAT IS CAUSING THE DELAY?

ARREST 2 OF 17 INDICTED IN CAPE COD RUM PLOT

FROM THE FAMILY ALBUM
This tin-type, taken about 1880, shows Governor "Al" Smith, then about six, with his father, his uncle, Peter Mulvihill, and his cousin, Tommie Mulvihill, in days when the sidewalks of New York were his playground.

WELLMAN HOME IN NEWTON TO TAKE A REST

Six German planes, innumerable milk bottles and one of the most thrilling motion pictures ever filmed to his credit, William "Billy" Wellman came home to Newton for a rest today.

With him came his wife, who was Marjorie Chapin, golden-haired prima donna of the Follies, and their four-year-old daughter, Gloria.

Billy Wellman's six German planes were accounted for during the World War after he lied his way into the Lafayette Escadrille at the age of 17.

The innumerable milk bottles, all empties now, he shook off Hollywood doorsteps while not so long ago he made the interminable rounds of the "movie" studios hunting for a job.

And the motion picture is none other than "Wings," the stirring film narrative of the airplane's part in the war, which he directed. He also directed "The Legion of the Condemned."

Wellman, his wife and daughter, arriving from the West, were met at Huntington ave. station by his mother, Mrs. Arthur G. Wellman of 22 Davis st., West Newton, and his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wellman, Jr., at whose home, 75 Royce rd., Newton, they will be guests.

The director's wife, a striking blonde, wore an all gray ensemble and was stockingless, in the newest Hollywood fashion. She is not "in pictures," although both her young daughter and herself played a small part in "Wings."

SETS WOMEN'S STYLE IN COTTON

Mrs. James R. Hooper, Jr., of Boston, is one of five women members of the style advisory board of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers, representing leading mills. These women give the industry the feminine viewpoint as to what women would like to wear. There is one man on the board.

ARREST TWO IN CAPE COD RUM CONSPIRACY

The Cape Cod rum smuggling conspiracy which has been under investigation by a federal grand jury was marked by two arrests today and the announcement of the identity of four of 15 others under indictment.

Charged with smuggling, Manuel Avila of New Bedford was held in $2500 following a plea of not guilty upon arraignment in federal court.

The others charged under the smuggling indictment but not yet arrested are John Fahey and John Crowley of Boston, known as "Little Jack" and "Big Jack" respectively; Max Fox of New Bedford and Charles Clark of Buzzards Bay.

The indictment charges them with smuggling in Buzzards Bay and Barnstable from September, 1926, until a month ago.

Walter H. Wilbur of Branstable was arrested and arraigned under an indictment charging conspiracy. He pleaded not guilty and was held in $1000 for trial.

The identity of 11 others whose names appear in the conspiracy indictment was not made public.

FAIL TO ARREST HUB INSPECTOR AS KIDNAPER

Application for a warrant for Police Inspector John A. McCarthy and Detectives Ruggiero and Maguire of New York for kidnaping Morris Kaufman of Dorchester was dismissed by Judge Dowd in municipal court today.

Action was taken at request of Atty. James Yoffa, who, with Atty. Solomon Mondlick, claimed their client was kidnaped from Dorchester court and placed in Charles st. jail.

Judge Dowd said he thought the officers were acting within their rights when they took Kaufman into custody after his release in Dorchester for want of jurisdiction. He is wanted in New York for a felony.

Atty.-Gen. Joseph E. Warner will grant a hearing on the question of his extradition.

POLICE ARREST THREE ON LOTTERY CHARGES

William Henry, 36, of Holyoke st., South End; James Edwards, 38, of Lincoln st., Everett, and Arthur Matney, 28, of Lenox st., were arrested by the Boston police today charged with setting up and promoting a lottery. According to the police, the three men all had lottery slips in their possession when arrested on the street.

"Peaches" Hurt in Crash

Mansfield, O., June 25 (APA).—An automobile accident has taken some of the bloom from "Peaches." Mrs. Browning suffered lacerations and shock when a car driven by her manager, Edgar Allen, overturned. Her mother also was bruised and Allen suffered a broken rib.

Missing

MISS LOUISE CASELLA

The Revere police were asked today to search for Mrs. Louise Casella, 20-year-old mother of a 2½-year-old child, who disappeared from her home, Mill st., Revere, Thursday.

The woman left a note for her husband, Samuel, in which she said she was tired of staying at home, and was going away for a change. Samuel, who is a laborer told the police he knew no reason why his wife should leave home.

Mrs. Casella is described as being 5 feet 3 inches tall, 135 pounds in weight, dark complexion with dark brown bobbed hair.

BOSTON WOMAN DICTATOR OF COTTON STYLE

Mrs. James R. Hooper, Jr., of Boston is one of five women who will set the style and design of cotton fabrics for the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers. Of six members of the style advisory board, only one is a man. All represent leading mills.

The American manufacturers have, during the past few years, paid more and more attention to style, the originating of new creations and to making the most delicate of colors fast to sun and washing. They have placed women at the head of style bureaus in mills and have appointed them directors of fabric styling in plants and selling houses, to give the industry the feminine viewpoint as to what American women will delight in wearing.

Among other women on the board are Miss Martha Dodson, representing the Pacific Mills of Dover, N. H., Lawrence and Columbia and Lyman, S. C., and Miss Mildred Harmeck, Amory, Browne & Co., Boston.

JEWELERS IN HUB FOR THREE-DAY CONVENTION

The Association of Jeweler's, Engravers & Stationers to Schools and Colleges opened a three-day convention at the Hotel Statler today. Pres. Henry C. Ostrander of the Robbins Co., Attleboro, opened the proceedings with a formal welcome, and after the discussion of preliminary business, lunch was served.

DORCHESTER JUNE BRIDE

Mrs. Edward P. Doyle, who, until her marriage at the home of her godfather, 1550 Columbia rd., today, was Miss Agnes G. Mullen. Following the ceremony a reception was given in Michael Perkins Post hall.

WEDS IN HOME OF GODFATHER

Miss Agnes G. Mullen, niece of Miss Catherine F. Burke of Holyoke, was married today to Edward F. Doyle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Doyle of South Boston.

The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's godfather, Albert Hocknell, 1550 Columbia rd., Dorchester, by the Rev. Thomas McNamara, who celebrated nuptial mass at the Gate of Heaven Church at 9 a. m. In the chancel were the Rev. James Fitzsimmons and Rev. James Hicks of SS. Peter and Paul school, from which Miss Mullen was graduated.

The bridesmaid was Miss Catherine S. Mullen of South Boston, a cousin of the bride, and the best man was John T. Burns of South Boston. The ushers were William Hugo and Leo Hennessy. Following a reception the couple left for a honeymoon in New York, Washington, Philadelphia and Canada. They will reside at 12 Ticknor st.

Only Static on Al's Radio; Sounds Like a Heflin Speech

Albany, N. Y., June 25 (INS)—Governor "Al" Smith has settled down to a week of heavy listening, he told newspaper correspondents today.

He was at his big radio, listening to the doings at Houston, but he wasn't quite sure the radio would be a huge success.

"See if there's anything on," the Governor told George B. Graves, his executive assistant.

"Nothing but static," Graves remarked as he turned on the set.

AGED MAN DIES IN NATICK FIRE

Natick, June 25—Overcome by smoke, Royal Dudley, 80, died today soon after firemen removed him from his blazing home in the central part of this town.

His daughter, Miss Mabel Dudley, 50, escaped and gave the alarm, but could not get help soon enough to save her father.

The fire started in the cellar of the house and burned through to the first floor. It is believed to have started in a heap of rubbish.

Dense smoke filled the house and firemen had difficulty penetrating it to find the aged man. After first aid measures they rushed him to Morse Hospital, but he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Now is the time to get that part-time job or something, a Situation Wanted Ad

DRIVER KILLED WHEN AUTO WHEEL FALLS OFF

Bennington, Vt., June 25 (AP)—Leslie Longstreet, 20, son of Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Longstreet of Brooklyn, was almost instantly killed in Arlington, 15 miles north of here, today when the right rear wheel of the car he was driving came off and the car was wrecked. Longstreet was pinned behind the steering wheel, and glass from the broken windshield severed his jugular vein. He was accompanied by Leslie Forgultes of Forestdale, who was uninjured.

FRENCH BONDS SLUMP ON FRANC STABILIZATION

Paris, June 25 (AP)—The Bourse took Premiere Poincare's stabilization bill without much pleasure today. Stocks and Government bonds went down considerably, while both the dollar and pound were lower than at any time in many months.

The franc was much stronger than the stabilized rate, the dollar being 5 points under the legal rate and sterling 13 points lower.

FULLER BOARD HEARS EXPERTS ON 'L' BILL

The special committee created by the Legislature to bring in a bill on the Elevated in compliance with the special message of Governor Fuller, today heard in private session Edward Dana, general manager of the road; Stanley R. Miller, J. Frank O'Hare, Winthrop Coffin, trustees; H. Ware Barnum, counsel; Representative Henry L. Shattuck of Boston and chairman Henry C. Attwill of the public utility commission.

It is understood that the trustees continue in their position that rapid transit extensions should be borne to a large extent in future by betterments through tax assessments, and not as formerly, entirely by the car riders.

Attwill told the committee the present 10-year loans continues indefinitely, or until two years after notice of termination.

BODY OF MAN FOUND FLOATING IN HARBOR

The body of a man about 45 years old was found floating in the harbor off Lewis wharf today and taken aboard the police boat, Edwin H. Curtis. Medical Examiner Magrath ordered it removed to the northern mortuary. The man was 5 feet 9 inches tall, weighing about 147 pounds and was of medium complexion with black hair.

PLANS FOR HUB RECEPTION TO MISS EARHART

Mayor Edward H. Larkin of Medford, at a conference with Mayor Nichols and Director of Public Celebrations Johnson, today approved the plans for Boston's welcome to Amelia Earhart, Wilmer Stultz and Lou Gordon.

Mayor Larkin will be the escort of Mrs. Annie C. Earhart and Miss Muriel Earhart, mother and sister of the first woman passenger in a transatlantic flight, on the day of the celebration, July 5.

They will ride with Miss Earhart from the airport to the Ritz-Carlton and accompany her to the Common for the afternoon exercises and to the Arena in the evening. Mayor Larkin said both Mrs. Earhart and Muriel had approved the plans for the Boston welcome.

Miss Earhart Greeted by Titled Leaders in London

London, June 25 (AP)—Miss Amelia Earhart, Wilmer Stultz, pilot, and Louis Gordon, mechanician, met many noble and titled people at a luncheon today and were paid high tribute for their transatlantic flight from Newfoundland to Wales.

The speakers included Sir Sefton Brancker, air vice-marshal; Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer; Sir Philipp Sassoon, under secretary of the air ministry, and Lady Astor.

They agreed in saying that the flight tended to create a warmer feeling of friendship between the United States and Great Britain.

Lady Heath, noted English flier, was the hostess and she said: "We are proud to belong to the same race of human beings as these three gallant people, who have shaken death by the hand and passed him by."

All three American fliers had to say a few words. Miss Earhart remarked that she "would like to see people as interested in flying and in discussing new types of planes as they are in discussing new cars."

Others present included Sir Alan and Lady Cobham, Lady Eleanor Smith and Lord Decies.

A ten-second silence was observed, all standing in memory of the fliers who lost their lives in an attempt to cross the Atlantic.

Stultz and Gordon announced their intention of flying to Paris late this afternoon. They will not be accompanied by Miss Earhart, and will return tomorrow evening to meet the Prince of Wales.

DENTAL SOCIETY OPENS THREE-DAY MEETING

The 18th annual convention of the Northeastern Massachusetts Dental Society opened its three-day session at the New Ocean House, Swampscott today, with an election of officers, Dr. A. S. MacLeod of Lowell being chosen president without opposition. Doctors W. C. Cannebrig, Beverly; V. C. Morrow, Lynn; Edgar A. Wright, Salem, and C. M. Sabille, North Andover, were elected first, second, third and fourth vice-presidents respectively. In the afternoon lectures on diet were given by Dr. George E. Harter of Toledo, O., and Dr. R. G. Jackson, Toronto, Canada. A golf tournament also took place at the Tedesco Country Club.

BOY, 15, ROBS 'SO HE CAN STUDY AT REFORM SCHOOL'

Brattleboro, Vt., June 25 (AP)—Jeff Newell, 15, of Wardsboro, surprised Judge Carpenter in municipal court today when, in reply to a question as to why he broke into the general store of C. M. Brown in Wardsboro last night, he said:

"I wanted to be arrested so I could be sent to the reform school and get an education."

He was arrested by Sheriff Wellman, who was called when people heard the sound of breaking glass. Judge Carpenter wanted his father present and continued the case indefinitely.

COP, "TOO OLD FOR LOVE," KILLS GIRL AND HIMSELF

New York, June 25 (INS)—The barrier of age, that thwarted the romance of Patrolman Alexander Hall, 49, and Hilda Fenn, 24, was broken today by four bullets from the policeman's revolver. Both are dead. A few steps from her home and before the eyes of her sister, Hall killed the girl who broke her engagement to him because he was too old. Thus he kept the promise made to Miss Fenn's brother, Albert, a week ago. "If I can't have her, nobody will." Then he killed himself.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR CHARLES HYDE OLMSTEAD

The funeral of Charles Hyde Olmstead, former president of the Continental Clothing Company, and one of the oldest clothing merchants in Boston, was held today from his home, 74 Green st., Brookline. Burial was at Hartford, Ct.

Mr. Olmstead died Saturday at the age of 80, following an illness of two days. He was one of the founders of the firm of Cushing, Olmstead & Snow a member of the firm of Freyland, Loomis & Co., and retired from the presidency of the Continental Clothing Company five years ago.

New York Fire Losses Drop

Albany, N. Y., June 25 (INS)—New York State's fire insurance losses were $14,820,109 less in 1927 than in 1926, according to a report made public today by State Supt. of Insurance James A. Beha.

BOTTLE OF WINE EXPLODES HUSBAND AND WIFE HURT

New Britain, Ct., June 25 (AP)—As the result of a bottle of wine given to Mrs. Tillie Rocco as a gift, she is in the New Britain General Hospital with lacerations about the face and head and her husband nursed medical treatment, when the bottle broke preparatory to serving it to several guests. Before attempting to take the cork from the bottle Mrs. Rocco shook the contents and as she did an explosion shattered glass in her face.

VICTIM IN LYNN AUTO CRASH VANISHES

Lynn police had a busy time early today rushing to Lynn Hospital victims of three automobile accidents.

Incidentally the police were confronted with a mystery when Walter Quant, believed to live in East Boston, vanished after he had been laid down at the roadside, unconscious.

Quant was one of five riders in a taxicab that crashed in Cooper st. with a car driven by Walter E. Murphy of Park st., Lynn, who escaped with scratches.

The cab was operated by Fred W. Nolan of Spencer st., Chelsea, who also suffered only scratches. Miss Catherine Newman of Suffolk st., Chelsea, and Everett R. Alexander of the same address went to the hospital and were sent home for treatment.

The fourth passenger in the cab, William Kalopinski of Elm st., Lynn, was taken unconscious to Lynn Hospital. His name is on the danger list.

A short time later, at Lawton st., Irving Caldwell, milk wagon driver, was tossed from his wagin in a full cascade of milk and cream when his wagon was struck by an automobile operated by Edward Bransfield of Beaudry ter., Lynn. Both men escaped injury, however.

It was less than half an hour later when the police ambulance went rolling again, this time to Chestnut and Howard sts. The officers found that Hosea McDonald of Malden had succeeded in almost enfolding a telephone pole with the front section of his big coach automobile.

McDonald was arrested for drunkenness and driving while under the influence of liquor. He paid $125 fine in Lynn court today on the operating charge, the drunk charge being filed.

Frank E. Crane of Malden, riding with McDonald, was arrested for drunkenness and was arraigned in court, but the charge was filed.

Whose fault . . . when love fades?

Strange, what little things so often kill romance. Careless little things! Unconscious slips that creep in to mar treasured illusions. So unsuspected, the guilty one rarely guesses the truth . . . until it is too late.

Can anyone afford to risk body odor?

BODY ODOR is a fault that not even love can excuse or overlook.

Before this tell-tale offense, the most ardent affection may turn cold and fade away. In both our social and business life, body odor may be a serious menace to happiness.

And yet—not one of us is safe from body odor. To live, we must perspire. Even on cool days, our millions of pores continually give off invisible perspiration—often as much as a quart of waste each 24 hours.

Body odor betrays*—without warning the offender

This body moisture, whether visible or invisible, is always odorous. And it spares no one. Men or women—regardless of occupation or position in life—all may offend unless they take precautions.

And very often we may be guilty—without knowing it. For, once an odor becomes familiar to us, our own sense of smell becomes deadened to it. This misleads many people, even fastidious ones, into thinking they are safe—when actually they do offend.

Why take chances?

But there's no excuse for this unpardonable offense now. Just wash and bathe often with the delightful toilet soap that millions enjoy—Lifebuoy—it deodorizes.

The same gentle and abundant antiseptic lather that helps protect health by removing germs—prevents body odor by purifying pores.

Lifebuoy's mild purity makes it ideal for complexions, too. It keeps skins clear and glowingly fresh. Millions use Lifebuoy for every toilet purpose.

What a clean scent!

You will learn to love Lifebuoy's pleasant clean scent, which tells you Lifebuoy purifies, and which vanishes as you rinse. Use Lifebuoy a week and you'll use it for life. Get some today.

FAVERSHAM-SHAW WEDDING AT CONCORD HOLDS SPOTLIGHT TODAY, SAYS BETTY ALDEN

Bride's Sister as Maid of Honor Was Sole Attendant at Ceremonial in Trinity Church

BRIDAL PLANS OF PRETTY, GOLDEN HAIRED MISS SALLY SHAW and the handsome and histrionic William Faversham, Jr., took them today to tiny Trinity Church in Concord, and then to the Shaw estate at Nine Acre Corner for a reception. Al fresco touches to the latter were added, as the weather permitted.. The wedding hour was high noon.

AN EXTRAORDINARY STRIKING PAIR WERE THE WEDDING principals. No young man could lead to the altar a bride more winsome. No girl could hope to draw a handsomer prize in the matrimonial market. And no two young people have a more lovely setting wherein to receive felicitations of wedding guests. Estates belonging to several Shaw families at Nine Acre Corner supply countless rolling acres, some terraced gardens beautifully fresh and verdant, and a country setting in which nature, seconded by art, has accomplished wonders.

GUESTS WHO DANCED AT THE WEDDING INCLUDED three very smart Younger Set people, contemporaries of the Shaw daughters. And of course the elders, including Shaw family affiliations—the Francis Shaws and the Frederick Lowells, were in attendance. Mr. Faversham's pater is the William Faversham of great stage renown in these United States. And a brother, Phillip, was the best man. A country wedding's studied simplicity gave the bride but one attendant, her sister, Miss Isabel, in the honor maid role.

Miss Peggy Creighton, daughter of the Albert Creighton's, departed early for the family's summer home on the North Shore. Last season she attained considerable fame as a yachtswoman, guiding the Con Con, in the Class O (one design, 15-footers), in the waters off Marblehead Neck. She is planning to resume her activities in this regard during the coming months.

THE T. MOTT SHAWS, PARENTS of the bride, presented first one daughter, then another. By a season or two Miss Isabel Shaw preceded Miss Sally Shaw into the social vortex. And for two so popular, highly placed and vivacious girls the social vortex became in truth a fashionable whirl, to be varied by trips abroad, sttidies in Paris, visits at English country houses, and all those casual goings and comings that enliven the days of social headliners.

MR. FAVERSHAM, THE younger, hitches his wagon to a star. The star is fame behind the footlights, and his foot already is on the first rung of the ladder of success. Paternal example and his own talents will carry him far on his chosen path. Some very advantageous and promising contracts bear the young man's signature, and so wedding bells were hastened in their ringing by some months, that September might find the budding Thespian on the scene in Manhattan ready to commence his footlight triumphs.

EN PASSANT, LITTLE MISS E. PAULINE SHAW, small daughter of the Frank Shaws, was not in the pretty little Trinity Church to see her cousin wed nor to dance during the festive hours following. Miss Pauline is spending a season abroad. She went over under the chaperonage of Mrs. Lyman Rice, and intermittently these 'two travel or linger. Just now they have a house on the Continent, at the seashore, for spending delightful days.

TODAY VISITORS FROM AFAR will be guests of Mrs. Larz Anderson at Weld. Mrs. Anderson is hostess to scores of her fellow war workers, women who served in huts, canteens, in signal corps and leave areas during the great world conflict. Mrs. Anderson was looking very smart in tan ensemble as I saw her at the Copley-Plaza, registering with the other war workers now in town for a convention. Tea, at beautiful Weld, will be one of the delegation's pleasantest recollections of a Boston visit.

SOUTH SHORE BENEFITS move on apace. Specially lively is the Cohasset resident colony in the philanthropical line, and particularly is Mrs. Ralph Menard and her Tally Club Alliance active. On Wednesday, luncheon in the Parish House garden, followed by a sale in the historical old parish house itself, is the program. And the articles that have piled high on sale tables these many years may all be had for a price. Young girls will be waitresses and still younger ones flower girls.

NO SINGLE TRICK IS TO BE missed. And a comfortable sum will be the result. So hope Mrs. Menard and her assistants—Mesdames Howard Power, George Vedeler, Clifford Gammons and Miss Edith Tower and Miss Bessie Tower. Miss Priscilla Gammons has for her waitress corps, Miss Virginia Furber, Miss Polly Cousens, Miss Dorothy Bates, Miss Mary Gammons and Miss Edith Gammons. The little flower girls are Miss Carey Ware, Miss Cornelia Menard, Miss Barbara Kendall, Miss Phillis Hall and Miss Isabel Cunningham, and Miss Barbara Adams.

A MONTH OR MORE DRESSED in khaki, sleeping beneath canvas, is a summer time while for Miss Miriam Winslow, daughter of the Sidney Winslows of Fernwood in Brookline. Life in camp, down in Connecticut hills, is novel recreation for this clever and talented girl, who dances divinely and rides with the aplomb and finish of a Mrs. Grinnell. The trail and the stream, rather than the saddle, will be Miss Winslow's metier for the next few weeks.

Dearest Anne:

You must have been up with the birds this morning! I didn't really expect you until a later train but I am glad you are here because we have lots to do before the evening comes.

Do you know that

of Chandler & Co., Tremont Street at West, are ever and always a wonder to me, for I cannot see how such good values can be offered at such low prices. Take the $15 dresses, for instance! Printed ensembles in victorious colors, fascinating and stylish indeed this year, come in women's misses' and juniors' sizes. Sport rajahs in the soft pastel shades vie with prints in brighter colors and georgettes in the woman's department. Whether the dress you want is one in tailored, sport, or more formal style you'll find it in the $15 dress section of The Spanish Galleries!

How Unhappy

our Beth was about her old fur coat! And how disreputable it did look before she took it to Parker Bros., 110 Tremont St., Shop 209. They remade it for her, with a glorious lining included, for $60. Furs are $40 to $60. It looked so very smart that Beth has been sending all her friends to the shop that makes your old cost look like new, making it last more winters than you expected you could wear it. They'll store it for you and you can pay for it when you get it in the fall. Now's the time for bargain prices in good-looking dresses in this same shop!

Still Another

Prize Cup has been added to those already filling the Poli Parrot Tremont dress shop to Mr. Green's collection. He has been winning cups ever since he invented the Miracle Method of permanent waving. Mr. Green's Miracle Method is very wonderful for gray, bleached or dyed hair. For the first time in the history of "Poli Parrot" there is a special price of $10 on permanent waves at their heart-of-the-business-section salon at 58 Winter Street which is a blessing for business women. You may make appointment for either day or evening at any of the three shops, 177 Tremont St. (Sep. 6770), 58 Winter St. (Cap. 5845) or 49 Scollay Sq. (Hay 2903).

That Early Summer

Clearance Sale that we have long been awaiting has come at last. Miss Evelyn at 8 Winter Street, 3rd floor, is giving the amazing bargain of two of her gorgeous dresses for $25. Purchase a plain or a figured crepe for afternoon and an airy flowered chiffon for the studio tea you are attending. Then there are flowered georgettes and washable dresses, not to forget the colorful evening dresses. She has some lovely sport models in rajah silk, priced at $5.95 and up, or a suit of rajah if you prefer. What joy for us! A sale at Miss Evelyn's!

The Fountain

of eternal youth has been captured by those famous enough to know about Virozol. Virozol Swedish Face Bath bathes your face like a cool sea breeze. It is just as refreshing too, and it is priced at only $1.25 at R. H. Stearns & Co., 140 Tremont St., Toilet Goods Dept., first floor. It cleanses your face and is an excellent astringent. Pregrant Virozol Face Powder is so good for your skin. It has no drying effect, but adheres to the skin and contains no harmful ingredients. Always keep your supply replenished for "Virozol" is a fad that has come to stay!

The Very Undies

you wanted, my dear, I've found for you at Filene's Underwear Department, First Floor. They are pinky soft and oh, so fine! Just think of the clinging softness of heavy glove silk right next your skin. First, there are vests priced at $1.15. They come in sizes 36 to 42, and are well made and durable. There are two distinctive styles in step-ins. One is the fashionable new yoke pantie step-in with reinforced seat and tailored hem. The other has an elastic top and pleated edge. The step-ins are priced at $1.85. The bloomers are cut full and are sure to be comfy and good looking. They are reinforced also. The price is $2.10, a very low one for such a fine, strong silken bloomer. The bloomers and step-ins come in medium and large sizes. You are waiting for the colors, aren't you? They come in the most-wanted shades at this time of year, soft, warm pink and purest white.

These two colors go best with sport clothes, are nicest for graduation gifts or for brides, and they seem to blend best with everything. I would advise you to buy these in sets, for you'll find no better values if you look a long time.

For the Benefit of those who Miss Edeit at 25 West st., Fabyan Bldg., Room 207, did not have time to wait on and for those who were unable to get their size, I have some glad news! Miss Edeit just made a trip to New York for a brand new supply of smart frocks to carry forward her tremendously successful $14 sale. Exquisite beyond words are the ensembles in pastel shades with their long coats. Smart coats, regularly priced as high as $35, are now priced at $14. You'll find everything in dresses from wash silks to sheer dinner gowns—all priced at $14. Get your supply this week so you'll be prepared for the Fourth of July!

The Last Week of the great Semi-Annual Clearance Sale at Thresher Bros., 19 Temple Place, is beginning. Anne, and I can't wait for you to see the astounding values in silks that they have there. There is a whole room full of silk priced at $1.38 a yard—and such silk, my dear. Some of it was formerly priced as high as $4.65 a yard. There are taffetas, flowered and plain, soft beautiful rayons, brocaded taffeta, exquisite pompadour silks, rainbow colored silk, flat crepe, printed crepes, satins, shantungs and striped and embroidered ponjee! In fact, whatever kind of a dress you may desire you can pick out your silk for it in that department.

It Is Nice

in these days to have everything guaranteed that we can, isn't it, Anne? You may get a guaranteed permanent at the shop of L. Cunningham, Superior Service Beauty Shoppe, at 561 Boylston St., Copley Square. You pick out the sort of wave you want and she does the rest, giving you a wave that is wide and naturally suited to your own particular style. She uses Nestle Circuline or Frederics Vita-Tonic Compound methods and her price is $10 during June. Call Back Bay 9069 for appointments!

Superfluous Hair

is such a bane in the existence of the otherwise happy life of Jane, isn't it? And it is so very unnecessary in these days of painless and permanent removal. James Brooks, electric needle specialist at 100 Boylston St., Suite 733, will remove all traces of it and it will not return again. His prices are $2 for a half hour or $3 for an hour, and it's well worth it, for he guarantees satisfaction. We never really capture charm in all its strange allure unless we have a fair, clear skin. Call Liberty 4466 for appointment.

Exclusive Indeed

and most individual are the brand new felts, just out of their wrappings, at Miss Lotty's Hat Shop at 8 Winter Street, Room $12. They come in those soft pastel shades just right for sport wear and so popular for summer wear. The price is $3. They are worth much more, I assure you! There are other smart felts priced up to $10, satin and velvet combination, alluring stitched silks in all shades priced at $5 and large brim hats in straws priced from $5 to $10. A big reduction has been made on $8, $10, and $12 straw hats. They are now priced at $3, $4 and $5. You'll find all sorts of good values in hats if you visit this shop. It keeps open until 6 at night and all day Saturdays!

Realistic Permanents have indeed earned their name, for I have never seen more lovely natural waves than those given by the Parisian Beauty Shoppe at 185 Summer St., just opposite the South Station, a convenient location to reach from all points of the city. You do not require any finger waves or wave setting with a "Realistic" because your hair just falls into bewitching waves that are most becoming. Dyeing and bleaching are done in this attractive shop also, and wigs and toupees are made to order. Mr. Henry Siegel's thirty-five years of experience enable him to give you the best in all branches of beauty culture. Call Capitol 8228 for appointments!

"Most Unusual,"

will be your comment, Anne, when you see the collection of advance models being shown at Allyn's. Every gown is new and represents more in fashion and fineness than the price—$18.75—in quantities. Every smart new style is represented in sizes from 14 to 44. If you are looking for real individuality in dress and wish to make your selection from a large variety of colors as well as fabrics, including chiffons, washable crepes and prints, or if you want a frock that looks expensive and is actually the last word in elegance be sure and visit Allyn's at 41 Winter Street, 5th floor!

The Important Question

Just now seems to be where it is best to get your permanent wave. If you are looking for a place to have a Frederics Vita-Tonic Compound process permanent you may have one for $10, including the entire head at the Beauty Shop of Houghton & Dutton Co., second floor, at 56 Tremont St. This includes shampoo and water wave. You won't feel right unless you have a permanent to take you through the summer season of swimming, golfing and outdoor sports. This permanent is especially good for gray or delicate shades of hair. Call Capitol 8611 for appointments!

We Are Invited to a Food Preservation Show at Jordan Marsh Company's Assembly Hall, 8th floor of the Annex. Here we'll learn how food can be kept fresh for a week in a frosty Frigidaire. This exhibit is arranged through the courtesy of Frigidaire Corporation for the Boston people so that they may be taught in a sane and simple way how to preserve scientifically the numerous foods that go to make up the 1925 meals a year that the average housewife must prepare. Frigidaire takes care of all these things. Mother makes luscious ginger ice cream in hers and many fine frozen desserts also. Tell your friends not to miss this amazing exhibition!

Trim Ankles

cannot be yours if the smooth contour beneath your sheer hose is blemished by enlarged or varicose veins. Dr. Saul, my foot specialist, at 110 Tremont St., Room 312, will provide you with scientifically designed silk elastic stockings, with knitted-in heels, flesh color, seamless, almost invisible and most comfortable for summer wear, priced at $6.75 each. His treatments are an immediate relief to corns or callouses. Dr. Saul's arch support shoes, priced at $8 are smart and scientifically built. You'll feel so much younger when you are provided with foot comfort, so away we'll go to Dr. Saul's office.

'Announcement Is made of the latest method in permanent waving and if you have this wave you may be sure whether you have gray, white or bleached hair that there isn't the least doubt that it will come out clear and fine, with wide natural waves and without being discolored. You may have any of the leading methods of permanent waving that you desire at this shop for $10.00. Of course you have guessed that the shop is Strail's, at 41 Winter Street, Rooms 73 and 74. Telephone Liberty 3443 for appointments!

Any Woman's Face

looks very much younger indeed if she is using Dr. John Peat's wonderful Absorption treatment, the most valuable modern discovery for women that history has produced. It brings new beauty almost over night. Used effectively, it has made 100,000 women look from 5 to 20 years younger than they really are. Blackheads vanish like magic. Coarse pores are refined, and wrinkles are removed by building up new tissue beneath and softening the surface. Dry, scaly skin becomes moist and fine. Telephone Haymarket 1647 for appointment; $5 facial for $2, or call at Peat Institute, 6 Beacon St., Room 910.

Gem Air Permanents are truly lovely as many of our friends discovered last week after their visit to The Cheney Beauty Shop, at 178 Tremont Street, fifth floor. Miss Cheney gave a special price of $5 during the week which she is extending through this week also. It's the regular $8 permanent with no electric wires used on the scalp—only hot air. It's nice to prepare for summer months so that we may be comfortable and smartly groomed. And surely there isn't one of our friends who would be without a permanent at this price. Call Capitol 2297 for appointment!

Loving you always,

Priscilla

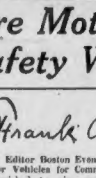
More Mothers Urge Safety Warnings

By Frank A. Goodwin

Highway Safety Editor Boston Evening American and Former Registrar of Motor Vehicles for Commonwealth of Massachusetts

We've decided to give you some more Mothers' Safety Don'ts today, submitted by mothers who received honorable mention in the Boston Evening American's contest, which proved such a big success.

Why not paste all these Safety Don'ts in a scrap book and read them over every now and then?



Frank A. Goodwin

Mrs. Elsie H. French, 3 Maple ave., Bradford, submitted her Don'ts in verse as follows:

Little children, listen, do
While advice I give to you;
You're so very sweet and dear
Be on guard when danger's near.

DON'T hang on the back of trucks,
This warning heed, I beg—
What a tragedy 'twould be
If you should lose a leg.

DON'T ever leave the trolley car
Without you first can see
That the road is clear on either side
And the path to sidewalk, free.

DON'T frighten smaller playmates,
With careless hoot or shout;
If they should dart between the wheels
'Twould be your fault, no doubt.

DON'T ever, ever careless be
When a bicycle you ride,
Keep out of heavy traffic, do
And stay on your right side.

DON'T run out between parked cars
A "crossing" always use—
You read of young lives lost this way
In every evening's news.

DON'T disregard the traffic signs,
They're put there to PROTECT you;
Consider every cop your friend
They safely will direct you.

DON'T call to friends across the street
When cars are rolling by,
For if they should attempt to cross
They might get hit and die.

DON'T ever play in crowded streets,
It's dangerous at best.
If you should fall beneath a car,
Would the brakes stand the test?

DON'T cross without a look to left
And then a look to right;
It's better to be SAFE and SURE
Than lose your precious life.

And DON'T FORGET YOUR TEACHER'S TALKS—
YOUR PARENTS KINDLY CAUTION;
Just do your best to CAREFUL be
There's safety in PRECAUTION.

HEALTH DANGER IN ROADSIDE FOOD STANDS

By Dr. P. H. MULLOWNEY, Director Hearst Health Laboratory

The campaign of the Hearst Health Laboratory for a strict supervision of the roadside stands selling shellfish, fruits, vegetables and other foodstuffs is being carried on vigorously.

The director of the laboratory has made trips in person to various points on the great highways running out of Boston, carefully noting violations of the sanitary code.

Conditions as a whole are good. There are defects, however, here and there, and it is my purpose to bring them to the attention of the proper authorities for the purpose of corrective action.

The principal defect observed in the case of many of these roadside stands is the absence of any proper method of sterilizing utensils and equipment used in the transaction of the business.

Certain classes of foodstuffs, such as frankfurters and rolls, are exposed to possible contamination by dirt and dust.

This item is really important, because later on when the roads have dried out under a hot sun, great clouds of dirt and dust will be thrown into the air by the constant passing of heavy cars.

In this connection also it may be mentioned that clams, both fried and in the shell, have been openly exposed for sale where dust and dirt could contaminate them.

An important development in the control of trade at roadside stands has been the campaign of the Commissioner of Agriculture to eradicate an annoying fraud on the public that is, the sale of fake farm goods.

A report has been received that in at least one case where supposedly new laid eggs were on sale, the intending purchaser would see same scratching around close by the stand. As a matter of fact the eggs sold had been brought in from the city market.

FLIERS FIGHT SHY OF HUB AIRPORT

The Boston airport will soon be nothing but a memory unless immediate steps are taken to enlarge runways and make the field safe for flying, Lieut. Ralph T. Wickford, chief pilot of the Boston Airport Corporation declared today.

Lieut. Wickford declares deserting the airport daily, with the result that if the trend continues the army planes will be about the only ships left at East Boston.

Lieut. Wickford said because of the restricted, if not dangerous conditions, commercial aviation companies are

"Whenever I go to other parts of the country and see the steps the municipalities are taking to enhance the growth of commercial aviation," he said, "I am ashamed to admit that I come from Boston, where we must take off from the back yard called the Boston airport.

"With upwards of 50 planes trying to use the local field, the conditions are very bad, if not dangerous, and as a result most of the commercial companies are moving to outlying fields.

"Our recent run of bad luck, with numerous crashes, has caused a serious rop in traffic. When a motor cuts out at this field the only place to land is the harbor, and that generally means a $3000 loss. It doesn't take many of them to wipe out a whole lot of profit. If the entire filled area was made into a flying field we would have plenty of room to land when motors cut out.

"Most of the companies now operating here are looking for fields outside in consequence. Eddie O'Toole is moving down to Martha's Vineyard for the summer; Tom Croce is going on a barnstorming tour; Skyways, Inc., has already opened a field at Lawrence and they have another field at Wareham that will be ready soon.

"The Bay State Flying Service has two fields in mind, and we, the Boston Airport Corporation, are going to move two planes down to Nantucket for the summer.

"That leaves only a small number of planes here to take care of the business that should be done. It isn't fair to the citizens of Greater Boston."

Ritchie Sees Victory for Smith and Party

By GOVERNOR ALBERT C. RITCHIE

Written exclusively for International News Service

Houston, Tex., June 25—I think Governor Alfred E. Smith will be nominated by the Democratic convention on the second, if not the first, ballot, and that he will be elected President of the United States next November.

Governor Smith will be nominated because party success depends upon party unity and Governor Smith is the man who offers far and away the best chance for unity.

The Democratic party is not going to have another Madison Square Garden. We do not want any dissension that can be properly avoided. Governor Smith gives the best assurance of victory and that is what this convention wants.

Governor Smith will be elected because the campaign will be between an efficiency expert on one side and a man who knows the heart of the people on the other. Governor Smith has proved himself a great administrator and he knows government.

Government deals with more than charts and blueprints and mechanics. It deals with human beings as well. Governor Smith knows humanity, and the American people will be for the man who stands for human rights.

Walker Sees Great Split if Smith Fails to Win

St. Louis, June 25 (AP)—Mayor Walker of New York, expressing the belief that Gov. Smith will be nominated at least on the third ballot, said here if Smith is not nominated "the Democratic party will be split into two factions that may never come together again."

"If the party rejects him as a candidate it may never recover from a division that is sure to come," Walker said. "We don't expect any fight; we expect Smith to go over without opposition."

"Jimmsy" Walker Is Napping to Texas

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

(Copyright, 1928, by Universal Service)

On Board the Mayor Walker's Special, June 25—His Honor the Jimmsy has donated the first two days of the trip to executive sleep.

His Honor the Jimmsy is conserving his strength for the great Southwest, where men are Democrats. His cold has evaporated. He looks lean and dapper and his eye sparkles like the tail light of a lightning bug.

Grover Whalen is making all the rear platform speeches, which consist exclusively of that magnificent but terrific interrogation, "What town is this?"

The only politics being discussed is gold and bridge. It seems that Kenneth O'Brien's uncle was the world's greatest bridge player. There was a tear in Kenneth's eye as he said: "He died last month and they buried him with simple honors."

Charley Keddigan, the assistant mayor, is bewildered. He doesn't know just how an assistant mayor assists a mayor to sleep.

Other prominent immigrants are Bill Walsh, Walter Herrick, Peter Brady, Esmond O'Brien, Louella Parsons, Stuart Gibboney and Charley Hand. City Hall is as desert as a dry pond. Mike Hylan has a good chance to capture the hall if he isn't afraid of that big club on the shoulder of civic virtue.

Walsh is commissioner of standards and appeals. Herrick is the duke of parks, but we cannot place Gibboney. We recall him as an old-time McAdoo man and author of that ferocious truth: "If the South is solid then somebody has done a good unionizing job."

The commissioner of rear platforms predicts a short fast convention. as Houston. The temperature is 100 in the shade, but the shade is full of Democrats. So the only compromise candidates we can think of is a sunstroke.

Louella Persons is the only lady on the train. She sent me up to the mayor's car to find out what the mayor was wearing and I had to come back and tell her nothing. His honor, the Jimmsy, was taking a shower bath.

He ate breakfast in a Greek lounging costume which was neutralized by Grover Whalen's red Russian slippers. Grover looks very lonely and we suspect that his silk hat is in the baggage car ahead.

The mayor's breakfast consisted of two eggs on two pieces of toast, some railroad butter, tea and a cigarette, which he did not smoke blindfolded.

If Jimmsy retains his present health and pepper he will astonish the Southern Democrats who have been working for eight years to return the postoffices, states and government to their original owners.

And if it comes to a compromise candidate, we predict that aceson Illers, Channel plungers and Tom Mix's scounder nag will have to go to Washington to greet His Honor the Jimmsy.

"War to the Death on Wet Plank" Declared by Daniels

Houston, June 25 (AP)—A fight to the "death" against any wet plank and for a rigid dry plank in the Democratic platform was promised today by Josephus Daniels of North Carolina, secretary of the navy under President Wilson.

Daniels was ready to join with the forces of Daniel Roper of South Carolina, who has organized for a dry fight as well as for an anti-Smith battle. Daniels is confining his attention strictly to the dry campaign.

"At least five Southern states will be lost," Daniels declared, "and all of the dry West, if the party is so foolish as to listen to fire talk for a wet plank."

Franklin D. Roosevelt Smith's Floor Manager

Houston, June 25 (INS)—Franklin D. Roosevelt today was selected as floor leader of Governor Smith's forces at the Democratic national convention, which opens tomorrow. This was announced today by George R. Van Namee, pre-convention manager for Smith.

In addition, Roosevelt will place Governor Smith's name before the convention as a candidate for the presidential nomination. Roosevelt nominated Smith at Madison Square Garden in 1924 and there also acted as floor manager.

SMITH ATTENDS SON'S GRADUATION IN ALBANY

Albany, N. Y., June 25 (AP)—Governor Smith partly allowed politics and the Houston Democratic convention to slip into the shadows of his interest today while he turned attention to the graduation of his youngest son, Walter, from high school. The Governor maintained official silence on matters political and adjusted his work to allow his attendance at the graduation exercises. Walter, 17 years old, was given his diploma at the high school of the Cathedral of Immaculate Conception.

Monument to Chamberlin

Cottbus, Germany, June 25 (INS)—A monument marking the spot where Clarence D. Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine landed will be unveiled tomorrow. The crew of the Bremen will be present.

WOMEN READY TO PLAY PART IN HOUSTON

By EMILY NEWELL BLAIR,
Vice-Chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

Copyright, 1928, by Universal Service, Inc.

Houston, Tex., June 25—In Houston, so far, it is the women outside the convention who have had all the innings. Only half of the national committee women have arrived, and almost none of the women delegates. What part they may play is yet to be seen.

In the meantime the National Democratic Women's Law Enforcement League has arrived in force with Mrs. Jessie W. Nicholson, president, and Miss Belle Kearney, orator, and Mrs. Ada Orme Dupuy, publicity chairman, to satisfy the demand for news about women at the convention, a demand never more insistent nor less supplied than at present.

DID NOT FIRE FIRST GUN.

These women hoped when they came to make the 18th amendment the paramount question in connection with the nomination of Governor Smith, a desire that has been satisfied beyond their wildest dreams.

But they did not fire the first gun. That honor fell to Norman Mack, veteran national committeeman from New York and campaign manager for William Jennings Bryan in the campaign of 1896, when he declared in favor of the repeal of the 18th amendment. It did, however, give them their golden opportunity. They countered with a threat that the 200,000 women they represented would bolt the ticket.

The answer of Governor Smith to the New York World query as to where he stood on the 18th amendment offered occasion for further statement by them as to the attitude of women, an occasion their brilliant publicity director did not ignore.

REED IS TEMPTED.

So emphatically were they heard that the rumor was abroad that the managers of Senator Reed considered approaching them to gain their acquiescence to his candidacy.

It is the pre-suffrage method of publicity. Instead of votes and threats, instead of candidates that this self-appointed group employs.

Nellie Ross Among Seventeen Soomed for Vice-President

Houston, June 25—They're talking of these 17 for vice-President:

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, Evans Woolen of Indiana, Cordell Hull of Tennessee, ex-Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, Governor Bulow of South Dakota, ex-Governor Nellie Taylor Ross of Wyoming, Jesse H. Jones of Texas, Governor Dan Moody of Texas, Senator Harrison of Mississippi, Senator Barkley of Kentucky, Governor Ritchie of Maryland, Bennett Clark of Missouri, Governor Byrd of Virginia, Lewis Stevenson of Illinois, Senator George of Georgia, ex-Governor Brandon of Alabama, George L. Berry of Tennessee.

T. J. Walsh Staying Away From Houston

Helena, Mont., June 25 (AP)—Senator T. J. Walsh, chairman of the 1924 National Democratic Convention and a candidate for the party's presidential nomination until a few weeks ago, will not be present at Houston.

Senator Walsh, who was named with J. Bruce Kremer, national committeeman, to head the Montana delegation and to whom Montana is pledged to turn if Governor Smith cannot be nominated, reached here last night from Washington and will spend the summer in Montana.

STOWAWAYS TAKE CHARGE OF SHIP, BUT IT'S SAFE

London, June 25 (INS)—The liner Jervis Bay, which sent out calls for assistance which aroused consternation in shipping circles, arrived safely at Colombo, Ceylon, at 9 a. m. today, a Central News dispatch stated. The captain said "eight dangerous stowaways" who were the cause of the calls for help refused to obey orders, broke their irons, set fire to bedding and insulted women passengers.

DAVIS IS GLAD HE'S NOT CANDIDATE THIS YEAR

Houston, June 25 (AP)—John W. Davis, Democratic Presidential nominee in 1924, arrived here announcing, "I'm just half a delegate." Explaining he carried a half a vote from New York, he predicted Smith's nomination on or before the third ballot.

"I am glad," Davis said, "that I have not been mentioned as a candidate at this convention."

Coolness and comfort at little cost

WHEN you are making out your list of supplies for the summer camp or cottage, camping or motor trip or for stocking the emergency shelf in your pantry, don't forget to include ready-to-brown corned beef hash.

Perhaps you hesitate to order this favorite dish when you are "eating out," but you need never hesitate to offer this ready-to-serve variety to your most critical guest. It is made from first quality ingredients and under the most sanitary conditions.

It is all ready to heat up just as it comes from the can or you may add your favorite flavoring, such as onion and green pepper or tomato sauce.

This is a favorite way that we prepare corned beef hash in the Martha Lee Kitchen. First melt 1 tbsp. or butter in a heavy aluminum frying pan. Then add ½ onion and ½ green pepper, finely chopped. Cook the vegetables until they are tender and golden brown, but not scorched.

Add 1 can of ready-to-brown corned beef hash which has been standing in a draught of fresh air, uncovered, for an hour or more. Mix with the vegetables and butter in the pan and let brown until a delicate crust is formed.

Turn out, omelet fashion, on a hot platter. Garnish with parsley and serve with poached eggs, catsup or chili sauce.

This hash makes a delicious Sunday morning breakfast dish served with poached eggs, chili sauce or catsup, hot biscuits and coffee. It is equally acceptable for luncheon or, in croquette form, with a tasty tomato sauce and garnished with parsley and radish roses it will serve as a dinner dish.

The same company putting up this hash also offers you a ready-to-serve beef stew. Both these products have won many gold medals in this country and abroad and have been approved and indorsed by a prominent bureau of food sanitation and health.

Costs no more than "cheap" ginger ales—but what a difference!

say "Chelmsford"!

CHELMSFORD is made by a different, better process. Real ripe fruit juice is used in Chelmsford. And pure Jamaica ginger.

But Chelmsford is very reasonable in price. It is New England's largest selling ginger ale. Because so many people prefer it, the price can be low. Try this fine ginger ale. Enjoy it for any occasion. At grocery, drug and confectionery stores. Three sizes. Golden and Pale Dry.

Kellogg's Corn Flakes★ are one of summer's very finest dishes. They are refreshingly light and crisp—rich with flavor. And so easy to digest they really help you keep cool and fit.

Kellogg's

CORN FLAKES

★ No other corn flakes equal Kellogg's for flavor and crispness. Kellogg's are never tough-thick. Never heavy — but always extra crisp!

Serve for lunch, dinner or breakfast. Delicious with milk or cream—fruits or honey added.

Order at hotels, cafeterias. On dining-cars. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Always oven-fresh!

FARMER MAY GET SECOND PLACE ON TICKET, M'QUAID WIRES

DELEGATES START TO CROWD ABOARD SMITH BAND WAGON

By ELIAS A. McQUAID.

Houston, Tex., June 25—They are talking some of Lewis G. Stevenson of Bloomington, Ill., as a likely candidate for second place. Stevenson owns and operates great farms in Indiana, Iowa and Illinois. His father was Adlai E. Stevenson, elected vice-president on the Cleveland ticket of 1892. "If a suitable farm plank is included in the platform here," Stevenson says, "the Middle West will go Democrat."

Andrew C. Gray of Delaware, Harvard Law school graduate and Wilmington banker, whose late father, George Gray, was a United States senator for 18 years, says it will be Smith "on either the first or second ballot."

It was not until Sunday that the last of the 60 men and women who will cast Texas' 40 votes got in. They had traveled long distances—for, as we are reminded from time to time, you could put all New England into Texas and have room enough left for another New England. John P. Sullivan of New Orleans, member of the Louisiana delegation, has not traveled as far to get to Houston as C. E. Hamilton of Matador, Texas, away up in the Panhandle, and R. E. Sherman of El Paso beats the New Orleans mileage two to one.

The Houston Post-Dispatch of Sunday gave two pages to the illustrated story of the life of Jesse H. Jones. There may be more to the Jones-for-Vice-President movement than meets the eye. Keep your eye on Jones, who now spends about half of each year in New York city and who certainly has made Houston over into a little Manhattan.

"This gathering of delegates to the Democratic National Convention," Jones' newspaper said in an advance notice, "is expected to pay some tribute of honor and gratitude to its departed leader in a demonstration which will be remembered as having directed the trend of the serious decisions of the week following it. When the beloved War President comes before this audience of the selected men and women to whose decision has been entrusted the serious duty of choosing his successor, his silent appeal is likely to influence them to do now, under his absent leadership, just what he might ask them to do if he could come before them in person. The occasion, therefore, will doubtless be one of the most momentous sessions of this week's series of important meetings."

Your correspondent, wondering what all this may mean, and suspecting it to be a most earnest drive against one of the men talked of here as a candidate for the presidential nomination, observed that once or twice the movie captions had something to say about the "politicians" who opposed Mr. Wilson, and his policies during his lifetime.

There was no mad rush of delegates to Sam Houston Hall yesterday afternoon when the Coliseum, in which this week's exercises are to be held, was formally dedicated. The bright particular star of the dedicatory program was Sam Houston's son, Andrew Jackson Houston, of Laporte, on Trinity bay, in Harris County.

The son of the man whose military genius freed the infant republic of Texas from Mexican domination is as bronzed as an Indian. You would take him to be a man of 60. He owns up to 74. He did not say much, but his manner and his self-possession were eloquent. There must have been 12,000 people in the hall, women and girls outnumbering the men 2 to 1, but A. J. Houston wasn't afraid of them and he showed no awe of the microphone.

After the exercises, he confessed that his one worry is whether some Boston publisher—he insists upon a Boston publisher—will put out the "History of Texas," upon which he has been at work for years and which is near completion.

"No, I'm not a farmer," he said, "but I live out on the floors most of the time. I suppose I would be called a recluse."

Next to Houston the great crowd was most interested in Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, whom the first page of the printed program described as the "honor guest" of the occasion. Mrs. Wilson, whom the years are treating with kindness, spoke briefly and with charm. She praised Houston and the Houston spirit, and also praised Jesse Jones and his spirit. Representatives of the Houston chapter, World War mothers, presented her with flowers.

It was a big day for Houston folks. When the show was over, the way they walked straight past several blocks of ice cream and cold drink stands was a sight to behold. There are 20 of these stands here for every one we saw at Kansas City. It looks as if many of the concessionaires were in for a licking they'll remember.

Mrs. Wilson is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Jones at the Hotel La-Branche. The daughters of the American Revolution will give a breakfast in her honor tomorrow morning at River Oaks Country Club. The National Democratic Women's Club will entertain in her honor Wednesday morning at a "large" breakfast on the roof of the Rice Hotel, and late on Wednesday Judge and Mrs. Thomas Watt Gregory will entertain in her honor.

Judge Gregory was attorney-general in the Wilson Cabinet. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Daniels and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Burleson will be among those present. Socially, at least, the week is to have a decidedly "Wilson" color.

This will be the first Democratic national convention held in the land of cotton since 1860. If things continue to move along as pleasantly as they have been doing it may be a long again before the Democrats meet anywhere else.

And today we have with us representatives of the only women's organization in America "favoring temperance, but opposed to the 18th amendment," namely, the Woman's Committee for Repeal.

M. Louise Gross of New York, one of many workers for the militant body, is telling delegates that "never before in the history of civilization have we seen boys and girls of 15 carrying hip flasks. We want to work with something that can't fail. Prohibition has proved the most colossal failure in the world."

Four days ago there appeared to be few more taxicabs in Houston than there are on Nantucket Island. A lot more have been hatched out, nearly all of the yellow variety. The initial rate is 50 cents per passenger—tell that to the boys of the state taxis. Announcement is made today that for the duration of the convention the minimum fare from any downtown hotel to Sam Houston Hall will be 50 cents for either one or two passengers. For each additional passenger the charge will be 10 cents. The distance is about nine blocks—nine short blocks—but in a temperature of 91 degrees the equivalent of 20 miles.

Gene Dennis, Kansas girl clairvoyant, is at the Metropolitan Theater here. Gene "knows all, tells all" and invites questions on politics, oil, love, marriages, career, missing relatives, lost articles, babies, future and money. Well, here's the low-down, the little girl from Kansas speaking, gents: "Before the convention has been officially opened many breaches will be healed. Al Smith will be nominated on an early ballot. I see that Hoover will be elected, but only by a close margin. Governor Smith actually will win the popular vote, losing the electoral vote by one state."

Charles D. Owen, Providence, R. I., textile manufacturer, has been telling them up in Dallas that it is a "virtual certainty" that the trend of the textile industry will be toward the southwest, where most of America's cotton is raised. Owen is reported to be in Texas seeking a site for a $5,000,000 mill. With him are 13 "prominent investment brokers and oil men from the East." 18th amendment he does not mean it, but is pledging himself to a lie.

"By no means. We want and are determined to have a man for President whose very name will be guarantee that the 18th amendment will be rigidly enforced.

"Unfortunately we have in the Democratic party a large number of jelly-fish politicians who are hungry for a 'job.' They are 'bandwagon hoppers.' They have developed a mania for hopping on a certain band-wagon.

"Wet violators of the law never have any reverence or respect for the Constitution, or for any law; patriotism is an unknown quantity; their affection for their country has been completely effaced, if it ever existed.

"The Democratic party has indeed come to the parting of the ways; perhaps some time a new party, a third all-American party, may become a reality to satisfy the demands of a truly patriotic Democratic citizenship."

Asked what strength Smith will have on the first ballot, Van Names said:

"We have contended right along that he would have more than 600 votes, but his strength has been growing so fast in the last 24 hours that I have no idea what it will be when the first roll call is started."

Mayor Hague of Jersey City and Mayor Walker of New York, are expected to serve as lieutenants with Roosevelt on the floor.

Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York has been named as an alternate at large in place of Congressman Parker Corning of Albany, who is ill.

Indications are that Wagner or John W. Davis, Democratic presidential candidate in 1924, will represent New York on the resolutions committee.

AUTOIST ESCAPES DEATH AS AUTO DROPS 35 FEET

Ayer, June 25—A man believed to be from Bennington, Vt., narrowly escaped death today when the automobile he was driving went through the guard rail of the Boston & Maine bridge and dropped 35 feet to the tracks below. The car was wrecked, but the driver, taken to a private hospital, was found to have escaped with bruises and abrasions. According to the police, the car skidded on the wet pavement of the bridge and went through the rail when the driver lost control.

Finish Fight on Liquor Due, Says Mrs. Shaver

Houston, June 25 (AP)—The floor of the Democratic Convention was portrayed today by Mrs. Clem L. Shaver, wife of the chairman of the Democratic National Committee, as the arena in which the "great battle between the 'wets' and the 'drys'" must be fought to a finish.

She declared that every Democratic and Republican voter "knows there is no such thing as harmony in the Democratic party," and she added, there never can be harmony "so long as certain wet elements in the party clamor for surrender, though so greatly in the minority."

Addressing a meeting of the national woman's committee for law enforcement at the First Baptist Church, South, Mrs. Shaver said the battle "must be a fight to the finish between the wet violators and nullifiers on the one hand and dry patriotic upholders of the Constitution on the other."

BATTLE TO THE END.

Without mentioning any names, she contended that "at Houston there can be no harmony if a wet nullifier is nominated," for it means just one thing—a bitter fight, complete lack of harmony and a, triumphant victory for the Republican ticket, and millions of dry Democrats who decide to do all in their power to help the Republicans win."

Replying if this would be disloyalty, Mrs. Shaver declared that "none but a dry, all-American candidate can be nominated in Texas, despite the clamouring of expediency-loving politicians, snivelling under the pussy puerile whine of 'harmony,' we must have harmony.

"Foolish, silly fortune politicians, small in stature, and small—much smaller in brain power," she continued. "They are kidding themselves, but they are not fooling anybody else.

"Are we women voters in the Democratic party going to vote to put in the White House any man with a dripping wet record, a saloon man, any nullifier inevitably associated with organized vice because he is a saloon man?

NO "FIFTY-FIFTY" DRYS.

"What sort of President do we want in the White House anyway, honest men and women of America? Do we want a wet or a 'fifty-fifty,' or an evader of the Constitution, a saloon man, or an insincere so-called 'law enforcement' bird, who knows when he promises to enforce the

REED PLEDGES ENFORCEMENT OF DRY LAWS

Houston, Tex., June 25—Senator James A. Reed of Missouri has pledged himself unequivocally to a full and vigorous enforcement of the 18th amendment and the Volstead law in the event he is elected to the presidency.

In a long statement outlining his position on the major issues of the campaign, Reed said he is still convinced that the overshadowing issue is the extermination of "corruption" and the restoration of popular government in national life.

The senator added, however, that he was impelled to re-state his position on prohibition because of the enforcement plank adopted by the Republican Party and the statement issued by a delegate to the Democratic convention.

Reed evidently referred to Norman E. Mack, New York national committeeman, who asserted that Governor Smith still favored a modification of the Volstead law.

"The Constitution," said Reed in his statement, "and the statutes must stand and be obeyed unless they are changed or repealed in the manner and form laid down by the Constitution. There should be no evasions. There should be no attempts to accomplish their destruction by indirection.

"In my opinion, the 18th amendment will stand until and unless the moral forces of the nation become convinced that there is some better way to deal with the liquor problem."

"The platform declarations should be so plain and direct as to leave no doubt as to their meaning. There should be no dodging—no cowardly evasions. We have no right to win merely that a few men may enjoy honors and emoluments of office Democrats stand for principles—not for profit.

"Honest elections must be assured by the outlawry and destruction of those criminal conspiracies which, masquerading as political organizations, gain and keep power by the protection of criminal classes, and exist by tribute exacted from the underworld, from public officers and from plundering the public with the aid of the ones they have placed in office.

Mack Feels Confident of Smith's Election

By NORMAN E. MACK

Democratic National Committeeman From New York and Long a Close Friend and Adviser of Gov. Alfred E. Smith. Written Exclusively for International News Service.

Houston, Tex., June 25—It is my firm conviction that Governor Alfred E. Smith will be nominated as the Democratic standard bearer and will be elected as the next President of the United States.

The personality and public record of Governor Smith is such that it has won the hearts of the people of the United States.

It has been my privilege to have been a representative of the national committee for 28 years. I have gone through many campaigns.

I have seen men of splendid character and great capability nominated by the Democratic party for the presidency, but I am frank to say that to my mind and from my experience with men in public affairs there is no man better fitted for this high honor than Alfred E. Smith.

I have made a canvass of conditions throughout the country, both by personal contact and by mail, and I have found an overwhelming sentiment for Governor Smith. I am confident the Democratic party as a whole recognizes his fitness for the nomination, and I do not believe there is any doubt about his being chosen. I look for his nomination on the very early ballot.

There has been much discussion of the Smith candidacy in the event there is prohibition. There has been talk that the South would not support him. All my life I have been in contact with the people of the South and I admire their traditions and bow to their faith in the Democratic Party. I have too much confidence in the South to believe the apparent attempt to dissuade their allegiance to this great party.

I am confident that the South in 1928 will again stand with the nominee of the party that is so near to them.

The South need not worry about the East. Smith will carry New York and with that State the greater majority of the other states in that section of the country.

Alfred E. Smith is not of the East, the South, the North or the West. He is of the nation. No more able man could be nominated for the presidency by the Democratic Party.

In my humble opinion, supported and strengthened by leaders in every part of the country, the Democratic Party in 1928 will again come into power.

"I WILL NEVER VOTE FOR SMITH!" DECLARES GLASS

Houston, June 25 (AP)—Senator Glass of Virginia, heretofore a dominant figure at Democratic conventions, said today he did not plan to exert himself at this one. "Opponents of Smith have laid down on the job," he declared. "They waited too long; they waited until Smith got the delegates." He said six of the Virginia delegates were for Smith and 16 were opposed to him.

"Will they vote for Smith if they are convinced he can't be stopped?" Glass was asked.

"I don't know what the others will do, but I will never vote for him," he declared.

OVERRIDE FIN. COM. ON SITE

In the face of opposition of the finance commission, the board of street commissioners today voted in favor of taking land in Charlestown for a school building.

The site is at Walker, Russell, Eden and Main sts. Protest was made not only because of the proposed site but because of land purchase disclosures at a recent public hearing of the commission.

The commission argued that there is plenty of land on the present site of the Prescott school, Elm, Medford and Polk sts., Charlestown.

ANOTHER KEITH FEATURE

As a special "Auld Lang Syne" feature of the closing performance of B. F. Keith's Theater on next Saturday night, Manager Bart Grady will conduct the cinema as he did 15 years ago. Grady's career with B. F. Keith's is one of the most interesting in the history of the house. It began in 1895 when he was put on the payroll as substitute pianist. At that time the piano was the entire orchestra and much of the success of the show depended on the man at the piano. Afterwards he played in the first orchestra, and in 1907 became orchestra leader. He soon was considered the greatest vaudeville director in the United States.

During this time Grady introduced many innovations in the presentation of music for vaudeville. He installed the first organ in a theater east of San Francisco. This was the beginning of the era of organs in theaters.

In 1916 Mr. Grady's ability as a showman was recognized by Robert G. Larsen, Keith's general manager, and he was made manager of the house.

Grady has continued as manager of B. F. Keith's since that time and when he steps into the pit on Saturday night, it will be the first time since he left it in 1916.

Three Lynn Brothers Reunited After 43 Years

Charles Newhall, who left Lynn in 1885 and who was believed dead by his relatives was a delegate to the Republican convention from Charleston, N. C., met some Massachusetts men there, and thought he would like to see the home town, so he came on to Lynn.

He hardly knew the place, but did locate a brother, Edward, on West Neptune st., Lynn, whom he had not seen in 42 years, and there was a joyful reunion. Then both brothers decided to visit another brother, Nelson, living in Utica, N. Y. There was another reunion, and the long-missing brother is off for the South again, but this time he promises to write and keep in touch with his brothers.

'HONOR BOUND' AT BOSTON

The plot of "Honor Bound" at the Keith-Albee Boston might be taken for a good old fashioned melodramatic thriller. In fact, it IS a melodramatic thriller, but it is decidedly not old fashioned. Alfred E. Green, a director of no mean ability, attended to this. All the old stuff, a thoroughly noble hero, a speckless heroine, a wicked vampire and a few first class catastrophes in the shape of an auto crash, a fire and a mine cave-in—all the ancient and honorable details are there, but so carefully handled that you are hardly aware of their existence.

George O'Brien

Green's principal players are George O'Brien, Leila Hyams, Estelle Taylor, as the "vamp," and Sam de Grasse. The latter's characterization of a murderously cruel mine boss is something extraordinary, for screen "heavies" go. Frankly, his is the best performance of the show.

Although the film is devoted to a sort of "expose" of prison conditions in the South, it stops far short of preachment. The hero's course as one of the victims is traced from the time he enters upon his sentence (five years at hard labor in a coal mine) until he triumphantly retrieves the heroine.

Nothing stilted about the players. O'Brien does some of the best acting of his career; Miss Taylor makes a venomous character look real enough, and Leila Hyams gives flesh and blood reality to the heroine.

The sets are all expertly contrived and the photography is up to the general excellence of this clever and truly exciting film show.

On the stage Wilbur Sweatman and his Creole Revue headline the array of vaudeville.

BANCROFT IS BIG HIT IN "DRAGNET" AT SCOLLAY

George Bancroft's new picture, "The Dragnet," at the Scollay, is fully as exciting and just as well made as his earlier success, "Underworld." The cast utilizes many of the same players and the same director, Josef Von Sternberg. While the story bears unmistakable traces of the fiction magazine, yet Von Sternberg's camera has ways of telling it that are anything but stilted. Bancroft, as an intrepid police inspector, does one of his best characterizations; and William Powell, Evelyn Brent and Leslie Fenton are not far behind him in the excellence of their acting.

A bullet from a rifle speeds the film on its way, automatic pistol shots spatter through its middle sequences, and it ends with a hail of fire from machine guns.

The film is always exciting, superbly photographed and flawlessly portrayed. What more must you have?

This Is Giggles

'DON'T MARRY' AT TWO HOUSES

"Don't Marry," the feature of the film program at the Modern and Beacon Theaters this week, deals with the romance of a Back Bay girl. The modern miss, portrayed in an amusing manner by Lois Moran, is forced to disguise herself as an old fashioned girl in order to gain the interest of the man of her choice. Her adventures in carrying out this deception, provide many whimsical moments and give to the screen one of its most hilariously funny comedies.

Lois Moran

Neil Hamilton plays the part of the man in the case. Others in the supporting cast are Henry Walker, Claire McDowell and Lydia Dickson.

On the same program is "A Dog of the Regiment," in which Rin Tin Tin displays his talents in a story of the World War. The tale is said to have reproduced much of Rin Tin Tin's own career. It especially interests itself with a love story of an American aviator and his German sweetheart.

Tom Gallery and Dorothy Gulliver play the parts of the sweethearts, supported by a large and competent cast.

STRONG PLOT IN OLYMPIA FILM

In "Happiness Ahead" at the Washington Street Olympia, Colleen Moore temporarily encounters a chunk of heavy drama — and a few crooks. She is a trusting little country girl, who is met and won by a "dark, handsome man" with a trig moustache. Edmund Lowe is the man, and his avocation (in the film) is cheating at cards. When the ingenious bride lands in the city apartment her elegant husband provides, trouble overtakes her on every side. Because the nimble sharper had displaced a flashy blonde siren for his unsuspecting country girl it is suddenly discovered that somebody had "squealed" to the police. And a trip up the river is in prospect.

Colleen Moore.

Telling the dear little woman that he is going to South America on business, the erring husband resolves to take his medicine and, after that, go straight.

Nevertheless, the blonde lady again gives away the show and the young wife at last is aware who it was that she married, but, like the brave little soul she is, off to the prison she goes to "forgive" the fellow and show him a few pink baby clothes she is working on and, of course, that means there is "happiness ahead."

A bill of vaudeville fills out the show.

FACT Story of the German Submarines From Secret Records

THE Boston Evening American begins today the publication of "Periscope!" by John Knox, author of "Aces Up." It is a fact story of the German submarine campaign and its defeat by the United States Navy. The story is written from the secret war records of the United States, England, France, Italy, Austria and Germany.

By JOHN KNOX

TWO o'clock in the morning. The curtains at the windows bellied and swung in the April breeze and the steady staccato of the season overture by an orchestra of crickets swept into the room from the tree-clad White House lawns—all without disturbing the stillness of the figure at the desk.

A single electric light cast its rays upon a scattering of papers and dimly disclosed the tall frame and the long ascetic face of the silent man who sat with his arms resting on the sides of his chair in a characteristic attitude. Unmoving, his eyes were fixed upon one of the sheets of paper before him where one phrase stood out among the massed type as though written in fire:

"There is reason for greatest alarm about the issue of the war."

Not the idle words of an alarmist, for the signature below them was a guaranty of authority—"PAGE." Woodrow Wilson, faced with the actuality of the war he had sincerely striven to avoid, had need for thought in the small hours of the morning.

This was not the War President's first "white night" nor was it to be his last. The slipping Allies had cast upon America the task of finding an answer to a question which they had spent their manhood and their wealth to solve—and in vain.

At the time the United States declared war against Germany, the Allies were beaten and on the point of surrender. That was their own statement of the case and the foundation of their plea for American help—a fact they had forgotten nineteen months later when Germany had surrendered and which they have never been able to remember since.

This is not another claim that the United States won the war. It is a statement of two facts—when we entered the Allies were beaten by their own admission and that after we had thrown our weight into the scale, defeat changed to victory.

In the first weeks of America's participation in the war there must have arisen in the minds of the President and his advisers a doubt of ultimate victory. Defeat was so near that it seemed folly to hope.

The desperate straits in which England stood were not made known to us until after we had committed ourselves to her cause. We knew that we faced a hard struggle, that we must produce unlimited men, money, munitions and ships but we were looking forward to the day when defeated Germany should sue for Peace and it was hard for our leaders to suddenly grasp the vision of a Germany not merely undefeated, but already victorious.

Our Allies minced no words after we were once committed to the war. Admiral William Sowden Sims, our first fighting commander to visit England was told many startling truths and it is with the transmission of them to President Wilson that our story opens.

The war is still hedged about with such an entanglement of prejudices and contradictory propaganda that opinion not based upon the official record is of little value in arriving at the facts.

An intimate recollection of the inner and less known history of 1917 and 1918 has schooled this writer to a dependence upon the official documents written at the time of the events rather than upon a later and less disinterested memory of what took place.

I realize that in making the statement that Germany stood victorious in the Spring of 1917, the reader's

HUB HARDWARE CONGRESS TO HOLD 4-DAY SESSION

The Boston Hardware Congress, which opens officially tonight, got under way today at Hotel Statler, with the midsummer meeting of the board of governors of the National Retail Hardware Association in the forenoon.

This afternoon there will be the annual meeting of the officers' council, including the national board and presidents and secretaries of affiliated organizations.

Tonight the congress opens with Russell J. Atkinson, president of the national association, presiding. The congress will extend through tomorrow, Wednesday and Thursday, with 800 delegates present making it the largest in the history of the national organization.

HOWARD SILENT ABOUT WHITEWASH CHARGE

Charles P. Howard, chairman of the commission on administration and finance today declined to comment upon the charge of Rev. A. Z. Conrad that the commission's report on alleged rum conditions at the State House was a "whitewash and a painted carbuncle."

"The report is in the hands of the legislative committee investigating the subject and all testimony and evidence is filed with it," said Howard. "If anything is to be done it is the function of that committee now." The legislative committee will hold another executive session tomorrow.

WIFE DIVORCES DOCTOR ON DESERTION CHARGE

Mrs. Beatrice Gates Payant of Medford, in Middlesex Probate Court today was granted a divorce from Dr. Claude L. Payant of 94 Boston ave, West Medford, and the custody of Donald Gates Payant, 12, was told Judge John C. Leggat they were married at Dennis, April 9, 1913, and on December 1, 1924, her husband said he was all through and left her. She said he had never returned.

STAGE FOR MRS. M'CORMICK

Chicago, June 25 (AP)—Mrs. Cyrus McCormick, Jr., is studying dramatic art with a view to trying her talents on the professional stage, Mr. McCormick said today he "wouldn't be surprised if she became a member of a stock company this summer."

Mr. McCormick, who is of the wealthy International Harvester family, expressed record with his wife's ambitions for a career as was in the interests of the junior Mrs. McCormick first turned to the stage, and her original plans did not contemplate going any further than amateur theatricals.

FLIES 30 FEET FROM EARTH

Nearly five hours overdue but stubborn enough to get the mail through himself, Harold Stark, airmail pilot, northbound, landed at the Boston Airport at 1:47 p. m. today after one regular and two forced landings.

Fog that lowered the ceiling all the way from his starting point at Hadley Field, N. J., and that at points hugged out all visibility, compelled Stark to land first at New London, Ct., at 8 a. m.

When the mist lifted he reached Hartford and then was able to progress to Pothier Fld., outside, Providence. Another lift in the fog gave him opportunity to head for Boston, although at times he flew not more than 30 feet above the ground.

Stark's delivery of the mail was the first through delivery by plane in a week, due to bad weather.

STEWART UNDER PERJURY INDICTMENT IN OIL CASE

Washington, June 25 (AP)—Robert W. Stewart, head of the Indiana Standard Oil Company, was indicted on three counts of perjury today as the result of his Continental Trading Company testimony before the senate oil committee. It was the same testimony that caused Stewart's resignation as chairman of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., to demand the corporation's board of directors.

BEGS AID OF OVERSEAS VETERANS

A proposed endowment fund for disabled women war workers was the chief business before the Women in Overseas service League today as 200 league members met at the Copley Plaza Hotel in the opening session of their eighth annual convention.

Mrs. Lena Hitchcock national president outlined the purpose of the league to keep alive the spirit which prompted women to serve and to uphold the tenets born of that companionship.

"It is for an intensified spiritual league for peace" was voiced by Dr. Rosalie Slaughter Morton of New York, founder of the American Women's Hospitals in Serbia and France.

"American women went into the World War as ministers of mercy. They learned the heart and soul of those countries as no formal ambassador can ever know them," said Dr. Morton, who wears nine medals bestowed by Serbia, Servia and the United States for distinguished service.

"Women who worked in Serbia and other countries must use the confidence so internationally established to help maintain peace and outlaw wars by will."

EVENING AMERICAN SPORTS

Heavy Stars Meet in Main Event at Wigwam Tonight

ROBERT IS PICKED TO WIN BOUT

Solomon Expected to Furnish Italian Heavy With Sturdy Opposition Tonight

By JACK CONWAY

ROBERTO ROBERTI, sensational Italian heavyweight, will go to the post a favorite in the betting when he battles King Solomon in a 10-round bout at an Argonne A. A. show at Braves Field tonight.

Roberti has put up some of his best battles in Boston rings, defeating Monte Munn, Jack Humbeck and Jack Gagnon.

'Jack Conway

Solomon, like Roberti, is a big Boston favorite. Despite the fact he has never won a decision over the Italian, the boxing critics have been prone to draw big crowds as he always furnishes action.

Jack Sharkey, Jim Maloney and Bucko Wall will attest to the fighting qualities of the Capital American champion.

Matchmaker Eddie Mack of the Argonne Club says he will make an effort to match the winner of tonight's bout with Jack Delaney, recently made a successful comeback.

DOC BAGLEY, who piloted Gene Tunney to the light heavyweight championship, will be in Roberti's corner tonight. Considers the youthful Italian the most promising newcomer in the heavyweight ranks. He is confident he will eventually pilot Roberti to a title bout with his former protege.

SOLOMON is one of those rare fighters who always gives the best he has in the fighting line when he steps into action.

Tan King is a combination fighter and boxer. He has had considerably more than experience than Roberti, and he believes that this asset will enable him to gain the victory tonight.

Roy Mitchell, Halifax light-heavyweight and Jimmy Nevins of New Bedford will swap blows in the semi-final of eight rounds.

Another lively bout of eight rounds will find Owen Flynn of South Boston pitted against Jack Burke of Montreal in a four-round number.

Jack Lemieux of Providence, at other ringside at Cape Cod, will clash with Joe Cabral champion of Cape Cod, in another four-session affair.

Johnny Burns of Denver will tackle Son Flinn of the Philippines in a six-rounder. Another six will bring together Phil Lamson of Malden and Louis Costa of Worcester.

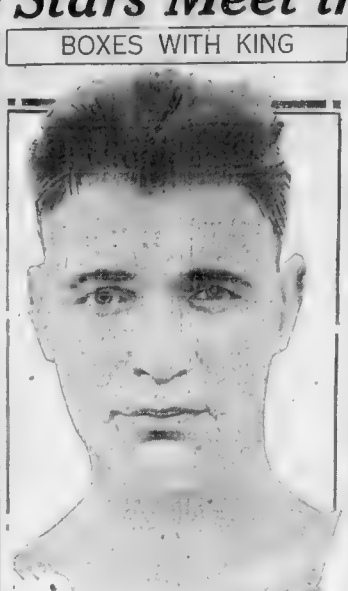
BOXES WITH KING



ROBERTO ROBERTI

Battles King Solomon in the feature bout at Braves Field tonight. The Italian heavyweight has been successful in Boston rings and is favored to halt the pugilistic rise of the Panama battler.

MURPHY AND MELLO READY FOR GONG

The boxing 30 lops off at Fenway Park tonight with Al Mello and Billy Murphy batting for the New England welterweight championship. The distances is eight rounds.

Mello, the champion, is a slight favorite with the bids of popular opinion turning towards Murphy.

Many persons close to the fistic racket are of the opinion Murphy will grab the championship. They figure as he was good enough to lick Honeyboy Finnegan as a featherweight, Johnny DiPesa as a lightweight and Jack Zivic and Meyer Cohen as a welterweight that he should also be able to upset Mello.

If Murphy wins, an effort will be made to match him for a bout in the city with Ace Hudkins.

Mello said Murphy have complete their training. The rival welterweights will take things easy today so as to be fit when they whirl into action tomorrow night.

There is intense rivalry between Mello and Murphy and it is expected that their bout will be jammed with fonds.

Chi. Bob McKirdy has had a test of the new lights over the ring and he announces it was perfect. The action will be as clear as if fought in daylight.

Boxes have been reserved for state and city officials while a band concert and every at ring display will add to the color of the show.

Charley Lampman, Dorchester welterweight, will challenge the winner of the Mello-Murphy bout if he upsets Pete Pershing, when he tackles in the semifinal of eight rounds.

Jackie Donahue of South Boston and Mickey Mullen of New York, in another ten another eight, are also expected to furnish a red hot bill.

Boxers' Cradle

St. Paul in the past 20 years has turned out more great ringmen than any city of its size in the world.

ED. ANDREWS DEFEATS HUNTER

Wimbledon, Eng., June 25 (AP)—Francis T. Hunter, American Davis Cup tennis team mate of Bill Tilden, suffered a surprising defeat today in the first round of the Wimbledon singles championships. Ed. Andrews of New Zealand put the American out of the tournament after a strenuous five-set battle by scores of 6—4, 3—7, 6—4, 6—4, 7—5.

Jean Borotra of France's Davis Cup musketeers won a sizzling set victory over A. H. Love of England, 6—2, 6—4, 6—4, as favorites continued to storm through the opening round.

Although Andrews, a young New Zealand student now attending Cambridge University, holds the championship of his homeland, his defeat of Hunter after a furious engagement provided the sensation of the opening day's play. Hunter had been conceded an easy victory by the critics.

Hunter's defeat at the hands of a comparative unknown followed straight set victories by four other members of the American Davis Cup squad in the opening play for unofficial world titles.

Tilden crushed M. V. Summerson, youthful English star, with the loss of only one game, 6—0, 6—1, 6—0. John Hennessey easily eliminated another Englishman, E. B. Milner, 6—1, 6—0, 6—2, and Wilbur F. Coen, Jr., youngest member of the team, beat Axel Petersen, Danish Davis Cup veteran, 7—5, 6—3, 6—2. George Lott trounced F. Crosbie, 6—2, 6—3, 6—2.

The French stars, Rene Lacoste, Henri Cochet and Jean Borotra, also came through with easy victories in the opening round, as did Henri de Morpurgo of Italy, another favorite in the play.

JACK BRITTON AND LEWIS MET 22 TIMES

Jack Britton and Ted Lewis, both former welterweight boxing champions, fought 22 times during their ring careers, during which Lew Tallo shifted three times.

"JUST met Paul Bowser, wrestling promoter," piped Mr. Boston as he breezed into the Sporting Department today.

"Paul was as happy as a youngster on Christmas morning. All because the ticket sale for the Lewis-Sonnenberg world's heavyweight championship match, billed for the Arena on Friday night, has passed the $10,000 mark.

"Bowser predicts a gate of $12,000 which will set a new record for New England. With $5 grand in the box office, Bowser will be able to pay Lewis his $3,500 guarantee and hand Sonnenberg $7,000, take care of his other expenses and make a fair profit.

"BOWSER says Sonnenberg has given wrestling the greatest boom it has ever had.

"'Dynamite has made thousands of new fans,' the promoter told me. 'I used to think I had to have a foreign star as an attraction to draw the crowds. Then Sonnenberg came along and made the foreign stars look very ordinary as box office magnets. If Sonnenberg dethrones Lewis, he will be able to make half a million dollars during the next year. The public will take him into their hearts like they did Dempsey.'

"DYNAMITE has earned $40,000 in his 38 winning bouts. He will add $7500 to his roll Friday night. No wonder school teachers, college professors and ministers of the gospel, struggling to secure a living wage, declare there is something radically wrong in our system of compensating real merit.

"WHILE so-called intellectuals argue to secure a small salary increase, Jack Dempsey once more tells Tex Rickard he cannot see his way clear to fight for a $500,000 purse. Rickard has guaranteed Jack Sharkey the Dempsey shot in the event the old Tiger hits the battle trail again.

"WHEN it's fair weather, boxing promoters, managers and knuckle smashers cheer together. When it rains, it is another story. My idea of a game bird is one who attempts to promote outdoor boxing in New England.

"JOE DiPESA wants to know who is going to win the Roberti-Solomon bout. Roberti! Does that make you happy, Joe?

"I WAS up to Bishop's Manor in Wrentham over the week-end and found Happy, newsboy king, in fine health and spirits. Happy is getting back on his feet after an attack of pneumonia. The newsboy king asked me to express his appreciation to the thousands of newsboys and other persons who showed him so many considerations during his illness. The gang is rooting for Happy to regain his full strength quickly.

"I MET Ernie Schaaf at Wrentham. He is as fit as a fiddle after having undergone an operation on his nose. He wants to get a crack at Big Boy Peterson, the only man who has ever won a decision over him in a Boston ring. Schaaf figures he will knock Big Boy stiff if he can get another shot at him. Ernie isn't offering any alibi for his defeat at the hands of Peterson, but it is a matter of record that he was operated upon for nose trouble a few days after the match.

"Phil Schlosberg, in line with his policy of keeping faith with the public, refused to pull his proteges out of the match at the 11th hour. It looks as though Schaaf and Peterson would stand a repeat. We're for it "JOHNNY BUCKLEY will be commander-in-chief of Billy Murphy's corner when the latter attempts to lift the New England welterweight crown from Al Mello's brow at Fenway Park tomorrow night. Buckley is back from St. Louis where Jack Sharkey tipped over Leo Gates in three chapters.

"SHARKEY will probably engage in a couple more bouts around the Bansholm Circuit so as to keep tuned up for a big shot in New York in September.

SONNENBERG IS READY FOR LEWIS

With three days to go before the big match with Strangler Lewis, Eye-ore Gus Sonnenberg is tapering off in his training for the championship match. Sonnenberg is always in perfect shape, so a little extra work was needed to give him the necessary edge of condition.

Gus has spent most of his training time, since signing for the title affair, in perfecting his regular holds and learning some new ones. A lot of people, in the attention given to his flying tackle, have lost sight of the fact that Sonnenberg is a capable conventional wrestler.

He has a good command of all the normal grips, and his flying tackle is really the thing that gives him a pronounced jump on the men whom he has beaten in the course of his mat career. With the tackle abroad, Sonny would still be a first-class performer.

Lewis is in good condition for the big bout. With the valuable title at stake, and that costly diamond-studded belt up for the victor, the champ is preparing carefully. There is little affection lost between him and Gus, and a frenzied fracas is certain to give the fans the best show they have witnessed in the history of local wrestling.

A capacity crowd will pack the Arena. Promoter Paul Bowser put up a big guarantee to tempt the champ into the title bout, and is figuring on the drawing power of Sonnenberg to fill the big sports hall.

Spuhn to Coach Havana Oarsmen

Philadelphia, June 25—Fred Spuhn, freshman coach at the University of Pennsylvania and former Washington oarsman, left here today for Cuba, where he will coach the Havana Yacht Club crews during the summer.

Spuhn will assume the coaching role occupied by (Rusty) Callow for the last two summers. It is understood Spuhn will return here next fall and take charge of the freshmen again, although his contract has expired.

Real Ring Record

Mike McTigue has had 339 encounters, totaling 7500 rounds, and has been in the ring 4500 minutes, according to his manager, Jimmy Johnston.

Glenna Two Under Par at Buffalo

Buffalo, N. Y., June 25 (AP)—Despite soggy fairways and slow greens, Glenna Collett of Providence, R. I., former champion, scored an 81, two under women's par, in the opening round today of the eighth annual women's tournament at the Buffalo Country Club.

Her card, one of the first of the day's play, looked to be the medal for the qualifying round.

Miss Maureen Orcutt of Englewood, N. J., had an 85, and Virginia Van Wie of Chicago, who won the tournament last year, had an 87.

Other early scores were:

Miss Isabel Beebe, Youngstown, O., 88; Mrs. Leo Federman, New York, and Miss Bernice Wall, Cleveland, 90 each.

"MAL" KITTRIDGE TO BE BURIED IN BUCKSPORT, ME.

Gary, Ind., June 25 (AP)—The body of Malachy Kittridge, catcher of Cap Anson's Chicago "White Stockings" baseball team of 1887-90, will be laid at last night to rest in Bucksport, Me., where burial will take place.

Kittridge, who retired from baseball, about 1897, is survived by his widow. Three sisters and three brothers.

Title Putt Finest Shot of Tourney

CHICAGO, Ill., June 25—Johnny Farrell, new open golf champion of the United States, started this morning to consider exhibition offers that promise to make him golf's richest champion.

Johnny's great victory over Bobby Jones in the brilliant 6-hole play at Olympia Fields has made him as popular throughout the country as any sport champion ever was. Telegrams of congratulation have been pouring in from all corners of the land, while the new champ will have to hire a manager and a treasurer to get his summer program arranged.

The new champion has color and personality. He has been one of the best drawing cards in the pro ranks for the past three years. Now that he has finally collected the biggest title of them all, he bids fair to be more popular and financially successful than Walter Hagen, great all-showman of the links.

Farrell rose to glory over the great figure that Bobby Jones spread in front of him, was one of golf's greatest performances. There was great glory in it for the loser as well as the victor.

FINALISTS UNDER STRAIN

The two champions had gone through 72 holes, the most exacting of all sport tests. It seemed but human for one or both to crack, with an additional 36 holes to go, while 10,000 mad enthusiasts swarmed all over the links like an army of luke ants.

Experts of the game, sharks of physical and mental powers, announced in advance that this playoff would be an exhibition of poor golf, with the lickers of the two embattled kings grabbing the crown.

Yet these two masters unfolded two great rounds under-Excelling a fearful fourth day, each very nearly coming a cropper over a difficult par 3 hill for 15 holes, only to step in front to serve one shot back of him. The two outstanding stars confounded the experts.

Farrell's title winning putt on the 36th green will go down in sisters with the great shots on the green, comparable to the long putt that Francis Ouimet sank on the last hole in Brookline in '13 to tie Vardon and Ray.

Jones, one stroke back, had chipped to within three feet of the cup. Farrell after two shots slightly off line, had pulled up beautifully. His ball stopped eight feet shy of the cup. Lightning flashed across the sky, thunder cracked and rain poured down. Ten thousand breathless fans milled restlessly.

STAGE SET FOR CLASSIC PUTT

The stage was set, with a perfect set on the way, of those tricky affairs so easily missed when nothing is at stake. Here on this one hung fame and fortune, the realization of all a golfer's dreams. Jones had an easy 12-inch mark for Farrell meant another terrible grind through 36 more holes.

Johnny carefully lined his putt, prepared to hit, then stopped. The silvering of the crowd, the click of cameras bothered him. Came silence. He stepped up, hit the ball carefully, but as coolly as a caddie practicing. It went right for the opening, there never was any doubt of it. The wild yell of the gallery rose over the thunder that pealed in the heavens.

That putt was the proper ending for a match that furnished brilliant golf all the way through. Now and then one champ or the other slipped a bit, but always he came back. Farrell shot into a three-stroke lead in the morning by fixing four birdies in a row off his deadly irons on the last four holes.

He frittered that lead away by sloppy play on the first two afternoon holes. Johnny should have cracked then, but he didn't. He came back with pars and birdies and hung grimly on as Jones, somber and determined, kept pegging away with the best Jones golf.

Farrell won his title by his iron play. His approaches were slightly more accurate than Jones' thumps for the gin. Five times Bobby sunk long putts to discount the deadly keenness of the new champion, but class with the blades told in the long run.

Johnny will now to play in the Kansas City open, and his will be a busy summer. He will wear the crown well. For years he has been threatening to clutch it, but has never come a hug nor a leaf in the open, until this one came along.

He picked the tight spot, and the right fellow for a playoff. He and Jones came in Metz for the past 12 months

Farrell Off Form at Kansas City

Kansas City, June 25 (AP)—Stroking erratically early in the sand traps and on the thickets, Johnny Farrell, national open champion, and Gene Sarazen, runner-up in the British open, were six over par with 41's at the end of the first nine holes in their belated start in the mid-American open at Lakewood here today.

Farrell's wizardry with his putter, which carried him to victory over Bobby Jones yesterday in the play-off for the national open title, escaped him on the rough Lakewood greens this morning, and he missed many short putts on the outward nine

Now that Bobby Jones and Johnnie Farrell have come to an agreement as regards the ownership of the United States open title, local golfdom swings back into action this week, with the Massachusetts Mixed Foursomes, club pairs, championship, which opens at the Woodland Golf Club tomorrow, and the Boston Four Ball League Field Day competition at the Charles River Country Club tomorrow. There will be individual medal play and four ball foursomes, for much green and red prizes will be offered.

From Wednesday through Saturday the Marlboro Country Club will act as host to the open medal play tournamenters, and if the weather offers the slightest encouragement a new attendance record should be established.

The Marlboro open extends over four days to give the less expert chance to unravel the mystery surrounding the cause of the high scoring on this difficult nine-holer. The contestants at Marlboro have the choice of playing 18 or 36 holes, and will have four days to complete the drives for the excellent array of prizes.

The members of the New England Professional Golfers' Association are at the Manchester, N. H., Country Club today for their first amateur-pro tournament of the season, while the Newspaper Men's Golf Association plays at the Blue Hill Country Club, where along with the usual handicap medal play tournament, the first rounds for the association championship will be played, will not be subject to nerves or faint ing spells.

Cantwell and Clarkson have been pitching steadily out in the ball per and have collected enough exercise to be in real shape. Both will be given early opportunities to go through.

BILL CARRIGAN'S Sox come home Wednesday for a long stop at the Fenway and the whole will receive the boys with open arms and lots and lots of hooks. The fans know all the players on the team, even though they be more games than they won. They fought like a real ball club in all the defeats.

The double win Saturday over the Yankees was one of the season's outstanding feats and comes pretty close to proving that the Sox are on the flash, that it packs real punch and power, with young pitchers who keep improving

Merle Hall, Al Niehaus and Lefty Russell all did a lot of pitching on the road. They give Lewiston Wilson a very formidable box staff.

Braves Dismal Stand Ends Tomorrow

ROGERS HORNSBY hurls his shattered Braves at the Brooklyn Dodgers today and tomorrow, weather willing, then takes his team away from here. Rogers will be glad to do that. He's rebuilding and knows that the job can be accomplished much better with his athletes separated from the native criticism that too much defeat brings.

The Tribe leaves for the West after concluding the Dodgers series, and the slugging manager promises that by the time it returns there will be quite a few additional changes.

"I have three or four more minor leaguers that look worth a chance," he remarked this a. m, "and things are getting lined up so that I think I can get them. The Braves as a team footpad, to the only thing to do was start changing.

The way the other clubs waived on the athletes offered was the tip-off on what the big leaguers think of some of the lawyers who have been around here for quite a long time. We may not start winning right away, but we haven't been doing that anyhow, and the new blood will have to improve things.

YOUNG MISTER HORNSBY intends to use his new pitchers if either of the Brooklyn games can be worked in. He's an impatient soul and believes that any athlete should be ready to give his best by the end of June. They call the Rajah hard-boiled around the Braves, and Boston baseball needs that quality. See what Bill Cunningham has done.

Jack Hollingsworth, who came from Rochester, will get a shot immediately. This chucker was going great guns in the International, and, having been up before

Single Line Arc Golf Swing Necessary

By MIRIAM BURNS HORN
National Women's Champion

There long has been a diversity of opinion between instructors and golfing authorities as to the correct method of swinging a wooden club.

But they all agree on one essential and that is—a single track for both the back and down swing of the club. Or in other words, a perfect single line arc, not a wavering one.

One track for the back swing and another for the down swing will invariably produce a cut of some kind and result in either a slice or a hook.

Usually the cause of a double track is incorrect pivoting—taking the club-head away from the ball with the arms instead of with the pivot. I remember, some years ago, when my pride was carrying me great distance, slicing and hooking all over the links, I went to a prominent professional to have him correct whatever was faulty in my swing.

"Let me see you swing," was his first comment.

I showed him. And then I heard a great deal about "double track," "wrong pivot," "jerky swing." Apparently nothing I did was right.

Here is the lesson that helped cure my slicing and hooking:

After taking the stance, start the club-head back with the pivot; that is let the club move, as the left knee is lowered and the weight is shifted from that foot. Drag the club-head along the ground far as pos-times of about twelve inches and then start the down swing by pushing the swing forward with a drag of the right arm, thus breaking the wrists at the right proper time.

At the top of the swing pause for a fraction of a second, enough to give you the feeling of balance and security, and then start the club-head on the downward swing. Just before the club-head reaches the ball "flick" the wrists into the ball

Don't lunge or you'll ruin the shot.

Waiting to speed up the club-head just before it reaches the ball makes a jerky swing which is bound to affect the timing.

Many women have the habit of swooping the ball from the tee. There is no snap to the shot. This is due to starting the club-head from the top of the swing, without speed and continuing on through the ball with no force whatever, suits in lack of distance.

SOX WINS OVER YANKS AIDED FLAG FIGHT

New York, June 25—After that double-barrelled pasting which the Red Sox rammed down the throats of the Yankees, Saturday, it was too much to expect the Carrigan hose to make it three straight from Hug[illegible] world champions. The Sox couldn't hit George Pipgras's Sunday pitching yesterday and suffered their third shutout defeat of the week.

[illegible] the Sox won a long [illegible] blanked. Within the last six days [illegible] Athletics, Babe Ruth and Bob Meusel, Lou Gehrig, Bob Shawkey and Pipgras, but Carrigan is not complaining.

That double victory over the [illegible] Athletics adds fresh interest to the five games which these clubs play this week-end and put a kick back in the entire race.

The Sox rookie had a chance to [illegible] yesterday. Hoyt[illegible] veteran pitching stars Pennock, Hoyt Moore and [illegible] Ruth, Meusel, Gehrig, Lazzeri and Lary picked up the crew singles.

Jack Russell, [illegible] good ball for [illegible] Jones, Ingalls and Lary picked up the crew singles.

'Twixt Tee and Cup

By BILL GRIMES

An inestimable number of shots were ruined by the thundering horde during the United States open at Olympia Fields.

The thoughtlessness or ignorance of the gallery caused many of the stars to flub apparently easy shots and most of them finished their rounds with their nerves jumping and almost uncontrollable.

There is no question but that at times the gallery gets on the nerves of Bobby Jones, who has, without a question, played before [illegible] the game. But, in fairness to the [illegible] it must be said that [illegible] the gallery [illegible] percent.

The gallery races around the courses to see Bobby Jones, and as soon as he had shot, off they [illegible] the next point of vantage without a care or a thought of whoever is so unfortunate as to be playing with the Georgian.

Johnnie Farrell is to be commended for the way he collected under pressure as cited the indomitable Walter Hagen before he had great duds slip onto [illegible] himself during the final and so many rounds at Chicago

Leonard Schmutte, who finished the first round one stroke away from Henry Cluett and Bill Leach, is a protege of Willie MacFarlane's, the former open champion. Schmutte first came into prominence while playing as MacFarlane's partner in four-ball matches in Florida, and two years ago, Chris Metcalfe, professional at the Commonwealth Country Club, predicted that the Lima, O., pro was destined to make a name for himself in golf.

Where "Drawing the Line" Is an Actual Fact

ALONG the edges of the carpet on each side of the British House of Commons runs a red line. By an unwritten law no member may pass these lines when speaking. The custom dates from the days of the Cavaliers and Roundheads.

Recipes by a Chef

THAT popular dish, German pot roast with potato pancakes, was only one of the many delicious things prepared by Arthur Fares, chef of Rosoff's Restaurant, during a lesson in practical cookery in the Martha Lee kitchen.

Martha Lee

Chef Fares, who has been with Rosoff's for seven years, is well known in Boston. He was previously connected with the Cafe Louis, the Boston City Club, the Quincy House and the Hotel Jack. His recipes are well with keeping and trying out, for they are as practical as they are delicious.

German Pot Roast—Select 2 pounds of rump or heel of round beef. Brown it in a heavy iron frying pan in a little suet or other fat. Meanwhile, carefully wash 1 carrot, 1 onion, a few sprigs of parsley, 2 slices of turnips and ½ bunch of celery, cut in pieces.

When the meat is browned arrange the vegetable around it, season with ½ tsp. salt and pepper and place in the oven to brown further. Then remove, put in a heavy kettle with the vegetables, and rounded with beef stock, canned beef soup can be used) and simmer gently until the meat is tender.

For the sauce, finely chop 2 onions, 3 tomatoes and 1 cup of chopped celery. Fry in sweet butter until the vegetables are tender. Mix in a little chopped parsley, strain the gravy which is around the pot roast and mix it with these vegetables.

Potato pancakes to serve with the pot roast are made thusly: Finely grate 6 good sized potatoes (if they are small, mix 8 cups of bread flour with ¾ tsp. baking powder, ¾ tsp. salt and 1 tbsp. sugar. Sift the grated potatoes and half of this flour and 3 well-beaten eggs. Beat well and cook on a griddle or thick frying pan in sweet butter.

Braised chicken sauliard was truly delicious. First the bones were removed from a chicken cut up as for fricasee. The boning can be omitted. Then the meat was salted and peppered and dipped in milk. Next the meat was dusted with flour and fried to a delicate brown in fresh butter.

When brown, the chicken was put in the same kettle in the oven where it remained until done.

For a sauce, in the same pan in which the chicken was fried, add one eight fresh mushrooms separated. Next ½ pound of Virginia ham was added and sauteed with the mushrooms. Then 1 cup of light cream was added and the sauce stirred carefully while being brought to a boil.

The chicken is taken out of the oven. In serving this dish the Virginia ham is first arranged on a platter of hot toast. The meat of chicken is placed on the ham and the mushroom sauce over the chicken.

Lamb chops saute. Robinson style, were quick and tasty. Six lamb chops were cut, French fashion and thoroughly salted and peppered. Then they were browned in sweet butter and placed in the oven to cook until thoroughly done. For a sauce, fresh cooked onions and mushrooms were sauteed in sweet butter.

In another pan ¼ pound of chicken livers coarsely chopped were sauteed also in butter. Then the chicken livers were browned in the same pan. To the others add the mushrooms.

Then a little finely chopped parsley added for flavor and thick brown meat stock or leftover gravy added to the vegetable mixture. The chops were arranged on the platter and the sauce poured over them.

Faithfully yours,

'Must Give to Get,' Says Beatrice Fairfax

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
In Authority on the Problems of Love and Marriage

WE all go shopping at life's department stores!

How eagerly we gaze at the treasures set forth, then proceed to buy what we want most—and can pay for. The price of success is usually hard work. Love is bought with love. Nothing is for nothing. We must get without giving.

The great quest of youth is a lifemate. Even when there can be no thought of marriage for several years, girls and young men subconsciously size each other up, long before ambition and judgment overlaps they are at all ready for marriage. But they are nevertheless weighing results.

"Oh, we're just good friends," they say in answer when questioned about Jack. Well, Jack and I are glad at school. We will not be able to marry for several years. It would be silly to become engaged."

"Jack is a great girl. I ever met!" they say. "Jack are up this friend was inspires him to his best. I'm going to marry her," he adds to himself.

"Oh, your Leap-Year shopping again," answers a well known wit. "There are only a few months left."

But, even in Leap Year, why jump to the conclusion that it is wise to propose to him? If he loves you, and is in a position to marry, how far you really "know the question." If not, why bump your self by inviting "No, thank you"?

Since the beginning of time, man's work has been to choose the food woman for his wife. And woman has been just as busy making herself a kind of woman who will be to attract the kind of man she wishes.

A woman admires most the type of man who is strong enough to dominate her and who knows what he wants and goes after it. A man, on the other, is not drawn to a woman who is passive. He knows he is to be sure by proving his position and choosing a suitable mate. But of all, he does not want a spineless creature.

Indecision sometimes arises through fear of making a mistake, so the person that makes a man a real woman's attention is the one who shows trustworthiness and essential.

It is the only man who ever asked me to marry him."

That was the surprising and honest confession of a young woman who is married to a rather stupid and unkind man. Let me say at once I am prejudiced against this type of man. But he doesn't seem to be pretty and had plenty of attention she never made an effort to be really interesting and worthwhile—and so lost out. A quiet girl with less vanity, realizing that a lot of shallow attention is not any particular compliment, might be far more likely to cultivate a few well-chosen friends and marry very well, indeed.

Of course, it is ridiculous to solemnly consider every young person possible husband. Every one prefers disinterested friendships. The best way to find a man is to be sure obvious efforts to inveigle him into an engagement. But it is very wise to ask yourself:

"Am I cultivating the friendship of the kind of men who would make a good husband? Are my habits and standards of 'my crowd'? Am I a girl a worthwhile man could admire, respect and wife?"

Be yourself. Every man feels more at ease and happy with a girl who is genuine and natural.

Even though your fees allowance may be small, you can be perfectly groomed. Buy fewer dresses if necessary, but see that the clothes are kept in perfect condition with frequent cleaning.

Let the worldly crowd alone. You can't afford to waste your youth, energy and time in dissipation. Devote intelligent effort to your healthful beauty, but do not try to hide a blighted skin with thick layers of powder and paint. They are not attractive.

You will have plenty of opportunities to meet the most eligible young men among your business associates and their friends, or through church or social life.

Any healthy, wholesome girl who decides to be well and makes a good wife should be able to realize this ambition, provided she employs her head and heart in shopping for her husband using earnestness and determination, but letting the man himself take the initiative. Do not make yourself too startled or you will miss opportunities. Choose a man who is sympathetic, kind and trustworthy and able to care for you with your own full cooperation and inspiration.

Choose your husband with some care, if you would be a happy and cheerful wife, then make the very best of your marriage—and make it

'Little Sins'; Thrilling Story By Katherine Brush

By KATHERINE BRUSH.
CHAPTER 42.

It was galling. To Guy Leonard, accustomed to homage, imbued since childhood with the notion that no party given by her friends was really a party without her, it was maddening as to be a most intolerable. She could not understand it. Why did they prefer Alan? Oh, of course, the girl would; and had never been popular with girls. But the men! Men with whom she had grown up, boys who had kissed her, fussed over her, proposed to her—that they should enjoy Alan's company more than hers was not to be believed. It just could not be. There was only too evident.

She lit a cigarette, sat on the edge of a chair and leaned forward, elbow on crossed knee. She smoked, gazing blankly ahead. She was remembering how expectant, how excited she had been on the ship coming back from Europe, thinking of Tom Sendair, of Peter Newton, of Punk Wyman, of half a dozen former beaux all unmarried, and of the rush they would give her again, now that she was free.

She had visualized a new era like the old sweet vivid era of her teens. Another year or so of moonlight and young nonsense, of dates and perfect boxes and wild little notes, of telephone rings, ringing all day, of fraternity pins and proms. . . . She was not too old. Only 22. And she was beautiful still.

Of course, there were the scars, the thin white scars which surgeons on both sides of the water had confessed their powerlessness to eradicate, but Marshall Snow, their dressmaker, had designed for her throat or filled chokerlight about her neck. The evening gowns that rose high in the front and were cut to the waist in back.

With these gowns, this beauty, this new freedom, she had thought to recapture the glamour of seasons gone.

She could have laughed at herself now—she could have laughed, if she had not felt so numb like weeping. There had been no rush. They had faded her. Tom and Peter Newton and the rest. They had forgotten her. Oh they spoke, they said hello, and asked about her trip; but they did not call up afterwards, or write, or come to see her. They were worshipping at the shrine now. And when they looked at her their eyes were critical, and somewhat cool. "You grew old Pomeroy a pretty raw deal"—that was all their eyes seemed to remember.

She had been forced, out of sheer boredom, to fall back upon the companionship of men she met and little known. Chance acquaintances. Young men about town. Men like the brown-eyed broker. Men like Carter Thayer, with the mammoth yacht and the big little fingers. Men in whom there was no glamour, with whom nothing one did was very much fun.

Thought of Carter Thayer roused her to recollection of the hour. She looked over at the enamel clock on the little bedside table. Nine-thirty. He would be along any moment now. She crushed out her cigarette, rose, returned to the dressing table. She richted the overturned bench and seated herself once more. She was ready, except for her gown and the finishing touches. Rouge, powder, mascara. She began to apply them mechanically.

Her pity for herself was almost a physical ache. Her shoulders drooped with it, her fingers that pused the pencils and puffs were laden with it. "Everything's awful, awful," she thought. "Everything's gone wrong. Anybody. What did I ever do? It isn't fair. I can't stand it. Living in this little hole. No friends, no money. How am I going to get money?" She was back on the main track now. "Suppose the stock doesn't fall any more. I suppose it stays right about where it is for a while. Still I'm out of luck. I can't live forever on a couple of thousand dollars—with no more coming in. I've got to get some somehow, sooner or later."

Something New for Over-Stout Women

You can wrap a 250-pound woman into this beautiful garment and bring her down to more than average figure. For it is an exquisitely designed and beautifully worked and finished piece of apparel. You may call it a corset or supporter and yet it is a delight to the eye and a contribution to comfort never before attained. It is

The W. S. Rice Reducing Surgical Corset

The front and back are so designed that those great layers of fat that bulge over the abdomen and roll in waves down the back to the waist, are all smoothed out and gently but firmly kept in place to show 10 to 15 pounds reduction.

It lifts up and supports the abdomen, empty pounds ever lifting, gives the waistline to symmetrical appearance and brings the entire figure into proportion.

On Free Trial

In a new neighborhood and community are women who have undergone great reduction leaving weak places that sometimes break apart with usual and strenuous exercise. If you have undergone a surgical operation that has left a weakness, a single attachment of air cushions to the conformer gives perfect support and protection.

It is made by Wm. S. Rice, the largest and most complete factory of its kind in the world, and needs but a try on to prove it the first and only perfect Reducing Corset ever made for stout women.

Put it on and see how amazingly it feels; how perfectly it brings you into shape; how easy and comfortable it is for your every breathe, how active you become. How you can bend over without strain. Walk upstairs like a girl and note how you can run and play with the children. It is a perfect fit.

Mme. Wm. S. Perry the personal corset aide of Wm. S. Rice, is now here to give the ladies of Boston every opportunity to fully test this wonderful Reducing Garment.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Will you kindly advise me whether a number should, or should not, be used at the present time in a wedding announcement? I have had several requests for a very large number of friends, and I would appreciate your telling me what is correct in a case of the above mentioned nature. I am sure that others would like to know the answer as well as myself.

Kindly suggest for a woman to tip the waitress when eating out alone or with another woman? MRS. L. P.

CREAMED corn should be eaten with a fork, according to the best form, but if you feel that this means, it is quite a spoon may be used. But one always be good with ruffles. Now as at all seasons, creamed vegetables, are a delicious accompaniment to fish and are even with the dinner fork.

2—In formal occasions spoons are used for the soup course, and the fork for the fish course. In informal occasions the fork is used for both courses.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Is it correct to invite one of the members of a club to a dinner party and not invite the other members of the club? I have been invited to a dinner party and would like to know if I should accept or decline the invitation. I am not a member of the club, but I know the hostess and the other members of the club. Should I send a card to the hostess, or should I write her a letter? I am not sure whether I should send a card to the hostess, or should I write her a letter? I am not sure whether I should send a card to the hostess, or should I write her a letter? I am not sure whether I should

The WOLF-MAN of PARIS

BY RAFAEL SABATINI

Author of "SCARAMOUCHE," "THE SEA HAWK," "CAPTAIN BLOOD," ETC.

A Story of Love and the French Revolution

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

CITIZEN-DEPUTY CHAUVINIERE, half wolf, half fox, has smuggled the lovely Cleonie de Montsorbier out of the Paris of the French Revolution. Frightened by his advances, the young noblewoman has fled in the disguise of a boy peasant and found refuge in the chateau of the former Vicomte de Corbal. She and Corbal have fallen in love, but an order for execution at the guillotine hangs over Corbal's head. He has decided to disobey the order of the Tribunal to marry his maidservant, Filomene. The Tribunal is in the hands of Chauviniere, and because of Chauviniere has sworn vengeance on Cleonie, it is impossible for Corbal to appear before the Tribunal with Cleonie as his proposed bride. When Chauviniere calls at the chateau, Corbal orders Filomene to admit him and to detain him if possible. Then he gets his duelling pistols.

CHAPTER XVIII.

Filomene had her attractions, and a man of so enterprising a nature as Chauviniere does not allow feminine attractions to go unheeded.

When she returned to him where he waited in the hall, he took her softly pounded chin in his lean hand and considered her approvingly. His words, however, suggested that he did so dispassionately, in a spirit of critical detachment.

"Does Corbal perceive your graces yet, my dear, this fastidious ci-devant? Faith, in his place, I should not wait to be bidden twice. I'll make a ci-devant vicomtesse of you yet," he promised, and kissed her by way of sealing the bargain. Detachment, after all, may be pushed too far; and he had a way with him, the citizen-representative Chauvinière.

He released her chin and bade her conduct him to the reluctant bridegroom. But Filomene remembered her orders to detain him, and he, himself, had afforded her the pretext. More than this, it was suddenly revealed to her now she might even save the vicomte, for whom her affection was of the exalted kind that desires to express itself only in service.

"It is not only the bridegroom who is reluctant," said she, her winsome face grown sullen. "You make very free with a poor girl, you gentlemen of the Revolutionary Tribunal. You bid a man marry me without so much as a 'by-your-leave' to me. You take it for granted that I've no mind in the matter. 'Marry Pitou mens on Thursday or we guillotine you on Friday,'" she sniffed her anger scorn. "You think that's all there is to it. And what if Filomene doesn't want the man your order to become her husband?"

Chauviniere was scowling at her. He remembered the soft glances he had seen her bestow upon Corbal, which had first suggested to him the course he had taken. His scowl became a smile of mockery.

"What game do you play with me, my girl?"

"No game, citizen-representative. It's deadly earnest as you and your Tribunal will discover. I'm not to be handed over like a cow or a sheep, and I don't belong to you to be bestowed by you. Liberty, eh? That's your notion of Liberty, is it? Why, the aristocrats would never have dared so much, and you'll not dare it where I'm concerned."

"But of course not, if you say so."

"I do say so." Her voice grew shrill. She had wrought herself into a fine fury of passion. "You'd better understand me clearly, and save yourselves the trouble of pushing this imbecile business any further. I do not take a husband at your bidding, and certainly not the citizen Corbal. I refuse to marry."

Chauviniere was smiling tolerantly upon the vehemence.

"You do?" quoth he.

"I will," she announced, not without a flash of exultation, conceiving that thus she had checkmated Chauviniere and saved her beloved vicomte from the peril that assailed him.

Chauviniere, still smiling, fetched a sigh. "A pity!" he said. "A thousand pities! He will now, if he wishes to live, have to find some one for himself; and I cannot hope that he will find any one half so agreeable." He sighed again, inwardly relishing the joke. "Now lead me to him, if you please."

Filomene shrank back, aghast to find her weapons so easily shivered. She choked down her tears of rage, eyeing the citizen-representative with a malevolence that but increased his secret mirth.

Then, nothing else being left to do, she conducted him in silence and announced him to the waiting vicomte. Lithe and active in his long gray coat, tricolor sash from which a sabre now dangled, and cockaded plumed hat which he did not trouble to remove, Chauviniere swaggered into the library. Within the threshold he halted, frony in every line of him, to survey the vicomte, who still stands behind him stood placidly by the empty fireplace. He jerked a thumb after the retreating Filomene.

"A juicy pullet, my friend; not to be boggled over by a man of taste." Perhaps I am taken. His scowl became a smile of mockery.

"What game do you play with me, my friend?

"No game, citizen-representative. It's deadly earnest as you and your Tribunal will discover. I'm not to be handed over like a cow or a sheep, and I don't belong to you to be bestowed by you. Liberty, eh? That's your notion of Liberty, is it? Why, the aristocrats would never have dared so much, and you'll not dare it where I'm concerned."

"I will," she announced, not without a flash of exultation, conceiving that thus she had checkmated Chauviniere and saved her beloved vicomte from the peril that assailed him.

Chauviniere, still smiling, fetched a sigh. "A pity!" he said. "A thousand pities! He will now, if he wishes to live, have to find some one for himself; and I cannot hope that he will find any one half so agreeable." He sighed again, inwardly relishing the joke. "Now lead me to him, if you please."

Then, nothing else being left to do, she conducted him in silence and announced him to the waiting vicomte. Lithe and active in his long gray coat, tricolor sash from which a sabre now dangled, and cockaded plumed hat which he did not trouble to remove, Chauviniere swaggered into the library. Within the threshold he halted, irony in every line of him, to survey the vicomte, who still stands behind him stood placidly by the empty fireplace. He jerked a thumb after the retreating Filomene.

"A juicy pullet, my friend; not to be boggled over by a man of taste." Perhaps I am taken. His scowl became a smile of mockery.

"In your own interests I hope you'll prove me. You've offended the child by your reluctance, and she declared that you shall not marry her over her dead body. But that is to be overcome by a little persuasion, woman to woman. In your place, I should offer it. You'll find her arms warmer about your neck than the collar of the guillotine. But it's for you to choose between maid and widow."

"You repeat yourself, citizen. Is that the only purpose of your visit?"

Chauviniere's light eyes drew narrow. Here was one who dealt in a mockery that was deadlier than his own and just as elusive.

"You misapprehend me." His tone was dry and crisp. "It is the fault of your class to work for understanding. It is the emptiness of aristocrat heads that has brought so many of them to the basket. I am here, my dear ci-devant, to exhort you in the fraternal spirit. . . ."

He broke off. A slight movement in the corner on his right drew his glance aside, to discover there a slim lad in peasant blouse and pantaloons.

"Why? Who's this that . . ." Again he checked a sudden quickening in his glance. He leaned forward, staring hard; took a short step, and stepped again. Then an oath of amazement escaped him, and on the heels of that a laugh, loud and full of relish. "Why, here's a meeting." He swept off his hat. "It becomes necessary to uncover," he bowed. "And how long may you have been at Corbal, my dear secretary?"

Mademoiselle de Montsorbier came forward a little, miraculously preserving her composure.

"Since last night, citizen," she answered simply, so simply and calmly that it staggered him.

"Oh, since last night, citizen!" he mimicked her. "Since last night eh? Name of a name! I find more at Corbal than I should have dreamed of seeking. "Life is full of surprises. But they are seldom as pleasant." He moved to advance towards her.

"Stand where you are."

It was Corbal who spoke, in a cold, crisp tone that effectively arrested the representative. He stiffened as he confronted the vicomte across half the room.

"Life is full of surprises, as you say, citizen-representative. This one may not prove quite so pleasant as you are supposing."

There was in the vicomte's attitude, in his very calm, something sinister and menacing.

Instantly Chauviniere scented danger and as instantly would have resented it; but he was hampered and undone by the mockery in which he dealt so lavishly. His pained show of mock-deference, numbered now his right hand with his doffed hat. Before he could help that hand to his bosom to pluck thence the pistol which he carried ready for just such emergencies, it was necessary to be rid of the hat. He tucked it swiftly under his left arm. But he got no farther.

His movement was the danger signal to Corbal, and Corbal now covered him with a heavy duelling pistol, steadied upon his left forearm.

"Move a finger, citizen representative, and I'll dispatch you into hell."

Chauviniere obeyed, but none too literally. He planted his feet wide and folded his hands behind him. Then he laughed. He scarcely ever performed unperturbed, disseminating an easy bearing the while. . . . He knew of this.

"Destroy upon surrender!" said he. "And this from you to your . . . devant! I was far, indeed from expecting it of you. Hitherto you have been of so charming and unfailing a courtesy that I should never have thought you capable of such a grossness. Why should you desire to intimidate me?"

"You misapprehend me. I am not proposing to intimidate you."

"What then?"

"To kill you."

How Much Water Should Baby Get?

A Famous Authority's Rule

By Ruth Britain

Baby specialists agree nowadays, that during the first six months, babies must have three ounces of fluid per pound of body weight daily. An eight pound baby, for instance, needs twenty-four ounces of fluid. Later on the rule is two ounces of fluid per pound of body weight. The amount of fluid absorbed by a breast fed baby is best determined by weighing before and after feeding for the whole day; and it is easily calculated for the bottle fed baby. Then make up any deficiency with water.

Giving baby sufficient water often relieves the feverish, crying, upset and restless spells. If it doesn't, give him a few drops of Fletcher's Castoria. For these and other ills of babies and children such as sour stomach, diarrhea, colic, constipation, sour stomach, loss of sleep, underweight, etc., leading physicians say there's nothing so effective. It is purely vegetable—Fletcher's is on the wrapper—and millions of mothers have depended on it in over thirty years of ever increasing use. It regulates baby's bowels, makes him sleep and eat right, enables him to get full nourishment from his food so he increases in weight as he should. With each package you get a book on Motherhood worth its weight in gold.

Just a word of caution. Look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher on the package so you'll be sure to get the genuine. The forty-cent bottles contain thirty-five doses.

Love's Choice

There's More Sparkle in a Baby's Eyes Than in All the Wine in the World

DRAWN BY Dorothy Flack

THE wine of life is the most intoxicating beverage that has ever been known. And those who imbibe of it too freely,-mistaking its bubbles and sparkle for all the best that is granted to mortals, soon tire of its glamour.

Take, for instance, the girl who stands poised on expectant toe, lovely and so young in her innocence and experience. She looks down the broad pathway of the life that is stretched before her, and sees all the gayety and good times and carefree jonquisage of which she has dreamed and wants immediately to plunge headlong into the mad whirl. But she doesn't see all the heartaches and tragedy that lie buried underneath the gay and gilded surface. All she sees are the rainbow colored bubbles and the sparkle and clear headiness of the brimming wine cup which is life. And away she goes!

But when Love comes to her and points out to her all the pitfalls and yawning chasms that stretch beneath her dainty feet—then is when she stops suddenly in her mad rush after Pleasure and contemplates which of the two paths that open before her is the right one to take.

And invariably Love points out the right one. It may seem hard and thorny and stony in comparison to the rose strewn path down which she has so daintily been dancing, but—who wouldn't prefer the sparkle of a baby's eyes to the most rare wine in the world? Can anything compare to the happiness which comes from a tiny golden head nestling close to one's heart?

This is Loves Choice and Love is always right. Sometimes the little regrets come stealing through the contentment, but this is only that one may appreciate the real Love.

So when Love's Choice is offered you, take it, for in this way alone does Happiness lie.

This is News—Two Prima Donnas Agree

TWO POPULAR STARS TALK ABOUT CLOTHES

New York, N. Y.—Mary Lawlor, star of "Good News," and Polly Walker, star of "The Merry Malones," may disagree, as prima donnas will, about the merits of their respective musical shows, but they agree on one point.

The well-dressed star, they both say, knows that the one way to keep stockings and frocks and underthings like new is with Lux.

"Lux is always in my dressing room," Polly Walker adds. "And I insist upon my maid's using only Lux for my show clothes and my own personal things, because I can't bear to lose a favorite gown or negligee through careless washing."

A recent survey showed that the producers of every musical show in New York specify Lux for the stockings and costumes of choruses, because they say washing with Lux keeps lovely filmy things new-looking twice as long as other methods.

Lever Brothers Co., largest soap makers in the world and makers of Lux, take great pride in the savings in clothes and money made possible through the use of Lux.

The great movie studios also use Lux to get double wear from costumes. And department stores estimate that Lux has saved American women at least a billion dollars through double wear from fabrics.

'Periscope'; True Romance of Submarines

eyebrows will rise in doubt for no word of what I am about to write leaked out" until long after the war was over and then only in official publications of small circulation to which the great public was not paid the bills had little access.

In disclosing them now I am actuated only by a desire to see justice done to the memory of the Americans who worked and fought and died to reserve the course of history. We have permitted too much to be said about the accomplishments of Europe and too little about our own. Our late Allies owe us more than money.

Now we come to the official statements of the situation as it existed just after the United States had declared war.

Far more than ourselves, England works under personal government. The dominant figure of the war period in British affairs was David Lloyd George. Let us quote him—"Had the Germans begun to employ the full strength of their submarines somewhat sooner, who knows whether the British Empire would be in existence today?"

The person best qualified to comment on the question of the English prime minister would seem to be Vice-Admiral Andreas Michelsen, formerly commander of the German submarine forces. It is his contention that Germany would have driven its adversaries home and forced England's surrender before we entered the war "if it had not been for the restrictions upon our activities imposed by the diplomatic pressure of the United States."

According to this German authority, the much derided "Wilson notes" saved England by moderating and postponing the German submarine warfare.

Turning to Winston Churchill, dynamic war leader of England's hard fight, we hear him say—"We just barely escaped. Our success hung by a very slender thread. Only a little more and the submarine warfare would have (COMPELLED OUR UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER TO AVOID STARVATION."

Now let us hear from Admiral Sir John Jellicoe, commander of the British grand fleet at the Battle of Jutland, and master of England's command of the sea. The tireless and indefatigable reader is now given to free expression and his few public utterances are deserving of the attention given to authority.

The peril confronting the British Empire at the time the United States entered the war has been set forth at great length in Admiral Jellicoe's memoirs and state papers. It is summarized well in the following sentence from his book, "The Crisis of the Naval War"—

"If the menace (of the submarine) had not been mastered to a considerable extent, and that speedily, not only would the victory of the Allies been imperilled, but this country (Great Britain) would have been brought face to face with conditions approaching starvation."

When Admiral Sims arrived in England to consult with Jellicoe he was told that the published figures of sinkings by submarines had been only one-fourth of the truth and that Eng and was seriously considering a surrender to Germany. Let Admiral Sims tell the story in his own words—

"It is expressing it mildly to say that I was surprised by this disclosure. I was fairly astounded, for I had never imagined anything so terrible. I expressed my consternation to Admiral Jellicoe.

"Yes," he said as quietly as though he were discussing the weather and not the future of the British Empire. "It is impossible for us to go on with the war, it losses like this continue."

"It looks as though the Germans were winning the war," I remarked.

"They will win, unless we can stop these losses—and stop them soon," the admiral (Jellicoe) replied.

"Is there no solution for the problem?" I asked.

"None that we can see now," Jellicoe announced.

As the situation stood in April 1917, German submarines were sinking 300,000 tons of Allied and neutral shipping per month—a rate of destruction which would sweep the seas practically bare by the end of that summer. England had only a few weeks' supply of food for her population and already the pinch of hunger was being felt in the British isles. All foods were rationed and many of the more important were entirely unobtainable. The handwriting was on the wall and it spelled disaster.

The future looked dark as President Wilson read once more the message which lay on his desk that April night. It was from Walter Hines Page, our ambassador to England:

"London, April 27, 1917.

"7:29 p. m.

"To Secretary of State,

Washington

"Very confidential for Secretary and President

"There is reason for greatest alarm about the issue of the war caused by the increasing success of the German submarines. Unless the present rate of destruction can be kept up we shall have soon to contemplate the defeat of Great Britain.

"I have it from official sources that during the week ending April 23 ships of 237,000 tons Allied and neutral were lost, not counting fishing craft stop Number of vessels unsuccessfully attacked indicates a great increase in number of submarines in action. This means practically a million tons loss every month (in shorter days of autumn come stop By that time the sea will be about cleared of shipping.

Most of the ships are sunk to westward and southward of Ireland stop The British have in that area only a small number of destroyers stop Their whole force is not sufficient that they can convoy the supplies and transport of troops and munitions necessary to maintain the war and the British army in France stop

"There is food enough here to last the civil population not more than six weeks or two months.

Whatever help the United States may render at any time in the future no help can be of the slightest use to the Allies in this war our help is now more seriously needed in the submarine area for the sake of all the Allies than it can ever be needed again on any other area.

"After careful study this critical situation with the Prime Minister and other members of the government I cannot refrain from most strongly recommending the immediate adoption of every destroyer and all other craft that can be of anti-submarine use.

"It seems to me the sharpest crisis of the war and the most dangerous situation for the Allies that has arisen or can arise stop If enough submarines can be destroyed in the next two or three months the war will be won and if we can continue effective help immediately it will be won directly by our aid.

I cannot exaggerate the pressing and increasing danger of the situation also. Every more delayed and other ship sent by us immediately would very likely be lost.

There is no time to be lost.

PAGE."

Final Bid Played by

In the next issue Mr. Whitehead will explain the salient points in the bidding and play of the above hand (upper left).

THE BIDDING

South, with a strong five-card Diamond suit, is one jump limited of No Trump because of his unprotected Spade condition. North is able to better the bid, having no Major bid and a stopper in only one suiter than the Diamond suit.

THE PLAY

Although East and West held the three top Spades, they could take no trick in the suit because of West's unfortunate, though correct, opening, which afforded the Declarer an opportunity to immediately establish the suit opened. Bringing in the lone cards of this suit in Dummy's hand gave him two Spade discards and a successful Heart finesse following, a Grand Slam was made on the hand.

BUSINESS vs. PLEASURE

By LUCY LOWELL.

HOW a busy woman may work in working hours despite her less busy friends is a problem solved by one reader of this column. I herewith give you her letter, hoping her method may prove useful to others who find themselves struggling with similar difficulties.

"Dear Miss Lowell:

"I, too, have experienced the hardship of trying to make sociability and business occupy the time that only the last should have and suffered for my poor judgment. It cannot be done and I am convinced only a firm stand taken with the idea that hurt feelings don't matter will protect one from those so thoughtless as to impose their ideas on one's working hours.

"I used to be something of a society butterfly, but after my husband died there was a living to be made and I was the one to do it. I opened a little real estate and insurance office in the small town where I live. And because I like things attractive and comfortable I fixed it up with easy chairs, reading tables, all the things, in fact, as would find in a home.

"And very shortly the good friends who had been my guests began to drop in and, seeing the place so charming, they dropped in often and the original 10 minutes which was the extent of their first calls lengthened to hours. It was all very pleasant, but I soon found I was doing no business. I didn't have time to do business!

"Something had to be done, but I didn't know what. I could not bear to hurt their feelings, nor did I wish to offend anybody.

"After a few months of this I hit on a plan. First of all I moved the office to a much smaller place, sending away the easy chairs, the tables, shaded lamps—everything, in fact, that made the room attractive.

"I got a rolltop desk and a couple of straight chairs, taking care they were not too comfortable, a file case and nothing else.

"My friends called at the new office—but they didn't stay long. And soon they stopped calling, excepting when they came on business.

"This is all of my story. The plan worked and with no one feeling injured. I hope it will give someone else a suggestion.

"MRS. A. L. M."

What do YOU think of Mrs. M.'s handling of this matter? I consider it clever, but wonder, nevertheless, if it would not have been possible for her to have remedied matters with less trouble to herself.

Write me YOUR experience, please.

MRS. SOLOMON SAYS—

By HELEN ROWLAND

SAY not unto me, oh Daughter, that ALL Good Husbands are dead husbands.

For, verily, verily, Babylon aboundeth in faithful husbands, and I have seen them with mine own eyes.

Now, behold, when five of these were gathered together, I sought them out and questioned them, saying, "Wherefore are ye models of devotion in a world full of flirts and steppers? Why are ye loyal to the wives of your bosom in the face of all temptations?"

"Behold, I am wedded to the most beautiful and enchanting of women; and all others are as dust and ashes-rans in mine eyes. Yea, I am faithful to the woman of my heart, even because I LOVE her."

And the second husband made reply, saying:

"I am married to the fairest and most honorable of women. And so long as she playeth square with me, I shall play fair with her. Verily, my conscience holdeth me in the straight and narrow way."

* * *

And the third husband responded, saying:

"Go to. I am wedded to a woman who cannot be fooled. Yea, she hath my Number! I DARE not deceive her; for she would find me out, and my name would be blasoned on the front page, and it would be 'Dannie' Therefore are my feet held to the dotted line by cold fear!"

"Lo, I am wedded to a spender, who keepeth me humping to satisfy her wants and to supply her with glad rags and new motor cars and trips to Paris. Alas, I am too busy all day and too weary at eve to find time or thoughts for any other woman! Yea, it is hard labor that keepeth me safe from the wiles of sirens and gold-diggers!"

* * *

"Verily, verily, I love my wife—but even more do I love my Peace of Mind! And serenity and quiet within the house are definitely to be preferred to variety, with clashing and discord. For no flirtation and no damsel are worth a life of torment and battle and family rows."

Behold, my Daughter, these are the Five Good Reasons why men cleave unto their wives and follow not in the ways of fools and steppers—even love, conscience, fear, hard labor and love of peace! And the greatest of these is Love of Peace!

THIS little girl in far-off Australia (or was it Honolulu?) wanted to know where to find the Information Desk in the Union Depot. She was a stranger, and didn't speak English very well. She was without friends or relatives. She hung around the depot for weeks. Then someone suggested that she write our Washington Bureau. Her communication was handed to Congressman Frisby, who took the first train out. And in less than three weeks' time he had found the young lady and directed her to the Information Desk. That's the kind of service we like to give our readers.

TICKER TAPE IS AFFLICTED BY NEW AILMENT

By FRANK H. MELSON
Financial Editor

Ticker tape has functioned well in the past, and most of the blame placed on it has been due to its being overtaxed by the immense volume of stock exchange transactions. Recently complaints have been received about the printing "piling" on the tape from time to time. According to ticker service men this new ailment is due to the difficulty experienced in getting a tape of exactly uniform thickness. To stop letters and figures from printing one on top of the other, you loosen the ticker roll when this happens.

Are coal and oil companies, both supplying fuel for heating and industrial purposes, to be linked more closely? In the past they have operated mostly as competing groups, but of course this situation could be quickly changed. The question about coal and oil companies getting together was raised in what is stated in the statement of Walter C. Teagle, president of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, as a director of the Consolidated Coal Co. New England has a large holding of the securities of both these companies.

Drive through busy Amesbury some day if you want to see a prosperous glass city. When the carriage-making industry went practically into the discard, Amesbury "grew with the times. Today it is one of the largest auto body making cities in the world. With the exception of a full-sized army of workmen skilled in this line the industry has spread to nearby cities and towns.

"The automobile has been a big factor in increasing steel production, glass production, lumber production, rubber production, cotton production, copper production, etc," says A. Wall Street writer. It has also been a big factor in making mill, furnace, factory, the railroads, the farmer and the people in general more prosperous. Now we hear from Washington that nearly 130,000 freight cars will be ordered by automobile manufacturers in quarter beginning July 1, 20,000 more than was needed in the corresponding quarter last year. And to think that less than a quarter of a century ago some towns and cities were introducing ordinances to keep automobiles off the highways, because they "scared the horses."

A New York bank has an interesting innovation. August Zinsser, president of the Central Savings Bank, announces that on and after July 1, interest on all savings deposits will start from the day the deposit is made.

This new policy will affect approximately 14,000 depositors who will thereby receive extra interest earnings in the regular quarterly dividend payments. The new plan also comprehends the payment of interest from the first day of the month on all deposits made up to and including the third business day. Credit will mean a distribution of extra interest earnings of many thousands of dollars and is unique, stated. It is stated, for the purpose of encouraging thrift and a desire to save among depositors.

Plans for consolidation of Pennsylvania, New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio and Van Sweringen groups will be ready for submission to Commerce Commission within a year, says Otto Kahn, of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. He adds that present conferences of Eastern executives would not result in developments in railroad consolidations, but a good start had been made.

Merger of big Eastern trunk lines would be physical rather than through holding companies, says Mr. Kahn, adding that he is confident the Interstate Commerce Commission ultimately would grant approval for some form of such consolidation. Reading and other Eastern roads have been allocated definite places in the plan, he says, and intimates that one of the other roads will acquire Reading.

The president of a large steel company said to the president of a large Broadway bank: "I read your interview and was much impressed with your contention that the steel industry does not yield 8 per cent on invested capital."

"But that's true in part only," replied the steel man. "Open departments like Fabricating approximately 6 per cent."

"May I ask what department you refer to?"

"Certainly," replied the steel president, "Our money department. We are lending $10,000,000 on call to brokers at 6 per cent."

State Street Notes

CALL money renewed at 6½ per cent.

POSTUM has declared a 100 per cent stock dividend. This company recently acquired Walter Baker plants in Dorchester.

BLACK & Decker Manufacturing Co. declared regular quarterly dividend of 10 cents, payable June 30.

BETON Leather Co. declared initial quarterly dividend of 50 cents on common, payable Aug. 1.

INVESTMENT demand for securities is expected after July 1 as result of large interest and dividends as well as redemptions as of that date.

OPPOSE STOCK INCREASE OF AMESBURY LIGHT CO.

Amesbury, June 25—Leading residents of Amesbury and Salisbury, including town officers, were to appear before the Public Utilities Commission in Boston today and oppose the petition of the Amesbury Electric Light Co. to issue $136,500, to increase its capital stock $136,500, upon which it proposes to build.

Attorney Alvert Miller, Amesbury town counsel, and Attorney John H. O'Neil for the town of Salisbury, are expected to make vigorous protest. The present electric light rates which, it is claimed, are too high, are big to the connection between the Amesbury Electric Light Co. and the Merrimack Valley Power and Building Co.

Lobby Takes Will Rogers to Task

Will Rogers, Esq.,
c/o Washington Duke Hotel,
Durham, N. C.

My dear Mr. Rogers:

In virtually everything that you have written and continue to write - and which I have read with keen pleasure for some years - there has been a wholesome smile. It has had a salutary effect on American opinion.

In the enclosed clipping there is an obvious absence of the fun-motive. It is a statement; unfortunately, a statement wholly lacking truth as its foundation. I am referring of course to the statement: "When you see a hundred and fifty million dollar plant lying here idle, it gives you an idea of the pull in legislation that the power trust exerts. They say, 'If we don't get it nobody else will'." And you use the press of my state to broadcast that statement.

This is the first article of its kind I have seen from your pen. As an admirer I regret it.

Yours very truly,

Director.

SXB:AW

"In virtually everything that you have written and continue to write—and which I have read with keen pleasure for some years—there has been a wholesome smile. It has had a sanitary effect on the American opinion.

"In the inclosed clipping there is an obvious absence of the fun motive. It is a statement; unfortunately, a statement wholly lacking truth as its foundation. I am referring, of course, to the statement: 'When you see a $150,000,000 plant lying here idle, it gives you an idea of the pull in legislation that the power trust exerts. They say "If we don't get it nobody will."' And you used the press of my State to broadcast that statement.

"This is the first article of its kind I have seen from your pen. As an admirer, I regret it."

Subsequently, at the hearing on Thursday, May 17, Judge Healey, counsel for the Federal Trade Commission, questioned Boney about the incident. Here is the pertinent testimony:

Q. You told Mr. Rogers that his statement was one wholly lacking in truth as its foundation, did you not?

A. I did.

Q. And you expressed regret that he should have written such a thing, I take it.

A. I did.

Q. And you think there is an obvious absence of the fun motive?

A. There was.

Q. Did Mr. Rogers answer that letter?

A. He did not.

Mr. Healey—He is still a humorist.

JUST how widespread and keenly alert are the workers for the power lobby in keeping track of what is being said and written about their interests in any part of the country is indicated in this letter, contained in the records of the Federal Trade Commission.

It was written to Will Rogers (shown at right) by S. E. Boney, director of the North and South Carolina Public Utility Information bureau under date of March 23 of this year. In it Boney reproaches Rogers because the latter had said the power trust, represented in this case by the Associated Southern Power Companies, who are Mr. Boney's clients, was unwilling to have anybody operate the Government plant at Muscle Shoals, unless they could have it themselves. The letter reads:

Power Trust Deceived Farmers and Clubs

sion, in its utilities investigation, from the files of J. N. Sheridan of St. Louis, for seven years a subordinate master mind of power propaganda. The letters, with others already in the record, reveal the power interests as perpetrating a gigantic fraud upon the American people.

In one letter many utility leaders, in their greed for profits, were pictured by Sheridan as thinking like "a famished wolf." It is near Bolt it as quickly as possible." This was written after Sheridan had revolted against the methods of speculators and other criminals among utility executives and financiers.

Another disclosed that the Electric Bond and Share Company, giant holding concern through which the General Electric Company was alleged by counsel to have controlled the electric power industry of the country, sought to influence United States senators and representatives against proposed traction legislation.

"The project at issue was a prohibition upon one-man street cars, whose use was opposed by the American Federation of Labor and Washington, D. C., street railway employes.

Correspondence relating to speculators disclosed a split in the ranks of utility men over stock manipulation. Prof. William S. Ripley of Harvard, whose pronouncements on corporation finance have reverberated all through the American economic structure, has pointed out what he considered dangers in "terminal" ing of control" through utility holding companies.

He attacked "the custom of trading on a thin equity, control resting in the hands of the common stockholders, while the funds are supplied by the sale of preferred stock and bonds."

Sheridan took Ripley's book and it was endorsed, at least in part, by P. H. Gadsden, vice-president of the United Gas Improvement Company of Philadelphia, the letters showed. Gadsden had been selected as vice chairman of the utilities lobby.

Sheridan hailed Gadsden's stand. Gadsden replied, on October 1:

"I am very glad to know that you though well of my treatment of Prof. Ripley's book. You will not be surprised, I know, to learn that some others in the public field did not take such a favorable view of what I said."

Sheridan wrote Gadsden three days later:

"I can readily understand that your acceptation of Prof. Ripley's book might not find approval in certain quarters. This is quite natural.

"The thinking of many utility men is the inconsiderate cogitation of a famished wolf when confronted with a defenseless baby—it is meat.

Bolt it as quickly as possible. The fact that the baby's family may not be appreciative of the complete satisfaction of the wolf never occurs to him, and he is probably surprised when they do not participate in it.

"Watching the motion picture 'Chang,' which showed how the East Indians, when their crops were destroyed by elephants, captured and domesticated the great beasts, my self-control was sorely tried with admiration, oh, they caught, and trained, and 'cosed' the elephants.

"That is what you did with the Ripley book—caught, trained, and used it.

COOLIDGE STICKS TO COUNTRY LODGE

Superior, Wis., June 25 (AP)—President Coolidge had no intention today to change his present mode of quiet life in the country and come to his office in Washington unless he has been given to take out to him to Cedar Island Lodge any important matters the burning mail might bring. He again attended church at Brule listening, as he did a week ago, to John Taylor, the blind lay preacher. Mrs. Coolidge, improved in health, stood after the services on the church steps by the side of Mr. Coolidge, affording the villagers their first real glimpse of her.

LLOYD GEORGE GOING BACK TO POLITICS

London, June 25 (AP)—The highest paid newspaper writer in the world, David Lloyd George, today announced his decision to abandon journalistic work after this year.

This week he vetted him in the neighborhood of $100,000 in six years, more than three times as much as he made when he was Prime Minister of England. But he is giving up his lucrative post with the Fourth Estate to return to politics.

He said that he will devote himself to a revival of the Liberal party and to working out a victory for that party in the coming general elec-

WOMAN DIES OF GAS POISONING

Mrs. Agnes Idleman, 42 of Highland Park ave., Roxbury, died today at the City Hospital from gas poisoning.

With a chair braced against the door from the inside, Mrs. Idleman became unconscious in her bedroom yesterday. The door was forced open by Motorcycle Officer James Roach of the Roxbury Crossing station after Mrs. Idleman's daughter had notified police.

Gas was flowing from an open wall jet, the windows were closed and Mrs. Idleman lay unconscious on the bed.

Bus Permit Denied

Concord, N. H. June 25—The Public Service Commission has denied the petition of Spyros P. Condos for permission to run a motor bus line from Newport to New London by way of Lake Sunapee.

EDITORIAL PAGE OF THE BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN BOSTON, JUNE 25, 1928

NATIONAL POLICIES OF THE HEARST NEWSPAPERS

1. An agreement of English-speaking peoples to preserve peace among themselves and promote the peace of the world.
2. A constitutional amendment to provide for the election of United States Senators in numbers proportionate to the population of each State, but no State to have less than two Senators. A reapportionment of Congressional representation immediately after every census, or in case of the failure of Congress so to act, to make the apportionment automatic at the end of the first Congressional session, the proportion of population for each representative in each case to be that of the existing Congress.
3. A separate Department of the Army, of the Navy and of the Air Forces, all united under a Secretary of National Defence.
4. Federal action to the limit of Federal Government powers to abolish illiteracy among the people of the United States, and the creation of a Secretary of Education.
5. Necessary measure to secure the election of Congress in November and its installation on the 1st of January following, and the inauguration of a President on the 1st of January immediately following his election in November.

Low College Marks

They Are Not Always a Sign That the Mind Is Below Par; Lindbergh's Case

Wisconsin's famous university, ten years after requesting Charles A. Lindbergh to leave its classic precincts because his examination marks were low, recalled him for one of its highest honors.

Which proves that to live right is to learn.

Low marks in exams do not necessarily mean low intelligence. They are often indicative merely of lack of interest. They may reflect poor teaching.

Lindy wasn't interested in the book lore at Madison. He was interested in flying. When he got upon his hobby he rode fast and far. And incidentally showed the finest kind of common sense and tact.

Some hundreds of thousands of young Americans throughout this land of ours will this month be flunked for unsatisfactory answers in exams.

They will not all be Lindys. Some are dullards, handicapped from the start in the race for scholastic honors.

But for every dullard there will be ten victims of lack of interest, lack of right placement, lack of inspirational tutoring.

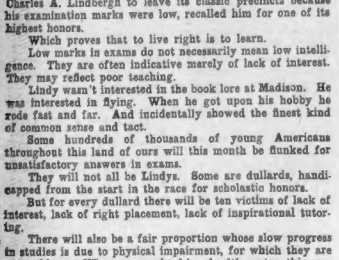
There will also be a fair proportion whose slow progress in studies is due to physical impairment, for which they are not to blame. When every school is a health center, this proportion will decrease.

Lindy's example should teach us to be chary of judging too much by surface appearances.

If the seed of genius does not sprout at the first tilth, give it another chance—give it many chances. Somewhere the soil, sun and moisture are in just the right combination to produce a crop of which all may be proud.

100 Years and More

Would You Like to Live So Long?



NAH-WEE-NUM-NAH-SHUK, AN AMERICAN INDIAN BORN 118 YEARS AGO

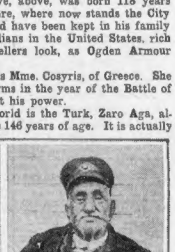
These are pictures of human beings that have lived long, and on the whole nature has dealt kindly with them.

The fine old Indian brave, above, was born 118 years ago, in a tent on a cow pasture, where now stands the City of Chicago. If that land could have been kept in his family there would be some rich Indians in the United States, rich enough to make the Rockefellers look, as Ogden Armour used to say, "like a gypsy."

The oldest living woman is Mme. Cosyris, of Greece. She was crying in her mother's arms in the year of the Battle of Waterloo, when Napoleon lost his power.

The oldest man in the world is the Turk, Zaro Aga, alleged and really believed to be 146 years of age. It is actually proved that men have lived as long as 146 years and longer. This man still earns his own living as usher in the Turkish law courts in Constantinople.

MME. IRENE COSYRIS, A GREEK LADY, OLDEST WOMAN IN THE WORLD



ZARO AGA, OLDEST LIVING HUMAN BEING, 146 YEARS OLD

The last picture shows Mr. Charles Quick, known to his friends as "Dad Quick." He was ruined in the big Chicago fire, his business destroyed, but not his courage.

He now lives in Vancouver, and there the Canadians admire him, working as you see him here, every day earning his own living.

It interests us all to know that the men of "intellectual" or THINKING occupations are the men that live longest.

Human beings ask themselves, "Is it necessary to die young, leaving the earth just as we begin to know how beautiful it is, and how to live wisely?" No fate more horrible could be imagined than to be condemned for life eternal, or even for a million years, on an imperfect planet.

Life is shorter than we realize. We spend the first twenty years or more learning HOW TO LIVE. Then we begin the process of slowly dying.

Of the few years that we have one-third is spent in sleep, and at least five per cent of the time in dressing, undressing and keeping clean.

Hustling in Houston

All Democrats Look Like Colonels or Majors to Hospitable Folk in Texas City

By O. O. McINTYRE

(Copyright, 1928, the McNaughton Syndicate, Inc).

HOUSTON, Texas, June 24—Those who have read pieces in the papers about the hearty and rubicund hospitality of Texas are not being disappointed. It is just too everything for anything.

At the station two red caps addressed me as "Colonel" and the clerk at the Rice called me "Major"—love that. My secretary—I have a secretary, but it is good propaganda—seemed tremendously impressed.

It is extraordinary what a nonentity you become in New York and how little you resent it, but I already have a feeling if anyone calls me "Captain" down here I will cut him dead. I'm that stuck up. The effort is to make everyone feel at home the moment they step from the train. It is not difficult so far as I'm concerned. Houston has been one of my favorite cities for several years and I feel almost like a home boy.

In fact you can go in any of the big bazaars and inquire for "Old-suckskin" and they'll know who you mean. You know. The long New York outlaw who wears pants.

There is an old story of a lonely looking fellow strolling around the lobby of a Houston hotel in chaps, a three-gallon hat and a six shooter strapped to each hip. He had a kid on a leash and was constantly shoving the head of a rattlesnake back into the pocket of his blue shirt.

Some one asked him why he looked so miserable. "They chased all of us sissies out of Austin last night," he sighed.

There is something about Texas that gets under your skin.

And I don't mean the chiggers. Anyway Texas is different from Rhode Island. There are no fancy frills or above the head handshaking. There is a warmth to the welcoming that is elegant.

Texas is an empire within itself. Covering a larger area than Germany, and you have a feeling Texas is not wrinkling its brow about lasting through the summer.

On the streets of Houston you see evidences of a vanishing past—cow punchers booted and spurred, hardy oil riggers, bronzed ranchmen and such—but if you have an idea it is one of those moving picture towns with a Joe's cafe, Bijou Dream and a Merchants Hotel, run-don't-walk-to-your nearest optician.

It has one of the finest art galleries in the country, a ship canal, acres of skyscrapers, million dollar mansions, broad avenues, polo fields, huge public parks and all the other trappings which make a metropolis metrop. Now that I've described the town so wonderfully I must tell you about what is going on here. You've guessed it. The Democratic Convention.

I wouldn't fool you. You cannot imagine how exciting it is to be a newspaper man and see the world like this. Just a week ago I ran across Damon Runyon in Kansas City and I ran across him today in Houston. And, since we met, I have been all the way to New York. I hope whoever gets up conventions will keep on having them. Travel broadens one so. And you would never believe how worldly I have become.

I came within three fingernails of getting a train window open and if I hadn't been obliged to change cars at St. Louis I would have made it. I have also learned not to pull the train rope when you want a porter. But that is not how I got the discolored eye. I ran into a suit case.

Only the newspaper boys and a few tourists were here when I arrived. The big Hegira—that'll be found under the H's—from all parts of America, sets in here. About the only difference so far between this and the Kansas City party is the lack of bands. I have heard but one band and the bass drummer, incidentally, was putting a lot of feeling into his work. If one man's enthusiasm can make this convention a success, he said.

There doesn't seem to be much talk about who will be nominated. One might get the idea that everybody knows and it would be foolish to discuss it. That may not be the case, but so it seems to me.

100 Years and More

MR. CHARLES QUICK, CANADA'S GRAND OLD MAN, AGE 108

In the Middle Ages one of the biggest cities in France had no man or woman living within it past fifty years of age.

And in olden days when a man reached forty he was called "a gray-beard."

Men lead active lives now up to eighty.

It is encouraging to look at some of those that have lived so long, and notice that they are still able to enjoy life.

HENRY GEORGE WAS MASTER OF STYLE

By DR. FRANK CRANE

EVERY young person should take the time to read carefully and to study Henry George's "Progress and Poverty."

Tolstoy said: "People do not argue with the teaching of Henry George. They simply do not know it. Those who become acquainted with it cannot but agree. The teaching of George is irresistibly convincing in its simplicity and clearness."

Anything that is thus wholeheartedly recommended by such a man as Tolstoy at least deserves our passing notice.

Many learned professors scout with scorn any suggestion coming from Henry George. They consider him as a faddist and a fanatical enthusiast.

It is certain, however, that there is something wrong with our present system of taxation. It does not bear equally upon the whole population and, in many instances, it is oppressive and unjust. Those who are doing the most to promote the welfare of the country are most thoroughly fined for their activities.

Do not take what other people around you say. Think for yourself. Read Henry George. I do not hesitate to say that it is the most instructive book on political economics that I have ever read.

Henry George's books have had a circulation of more than 6,000,000 in English alone, and have been translated into Chinese, Japanese, Russian, Finnish, Danish, Swedish, French, German, Spanish, Dutch, Hungarian and Italian.

We cannot resist the conviction that there must be something to writings that have been so thoroughly appreciated by the populations of the world.

Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War, said: "I have reread this address and came away with the conviction that Henry George should be studied in all our colleges as a master of style. I know no other man of American prose, with the solitary exception of Woodrow Wilson, whose elevation of thought and dignity of language are so overwhelming."

Elbert Hubbard wrote: "The logic of Henry George's 'Progress and Poverty' and its literary style has been so insistent, that it has been studied closely by economists of note in every country on the globe. Its argument has never been answered."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

TWO little high school girls, Doris and Dorothy, of Stamford, Ct., have written to me. Perhaps if you have some of the current heatic ideas about high school girls' interests, their letter may surprise you. Here it is:

Dear Elsie Robinson:

Some of the seniors in our high school have been having a heated debate about the immortality of the soul. Two of us argued that the soul existed after the body died, but another girl said, "When we're dead we're six feet under and that's all there is to it." We read your articles and we remembered that you had once written something on this subject. I can't remember just what you said but I know it made us very sure and happy. Won't you write something again to help us win the argument?

DORIS AND DOROTHY.

Do our spirits go on?

I do not know, little sisters. That is the oldest question of the human head and, as yet, no man has answered it. But I do know one fact and you can hold hard to this fact all your life—

Our spirits may or may not go on, but they have certainly come on.

We have no proof of life after the grave but we have a million proofs of life before the cradle. We do not start with our birth. We have come from infinite distances, through immeasurable toil and struggle. You do not need to read Wells books to prove that. You need only read the record of your own young heart. There in your spurts of sudden fear and fury are traces of the days when you were little better than a brute—there in noble gusts of courage and generosity are evidences of your triumph over that brutality. And always, glowing through it all like a spark, working through it like yeast, is a dream of goodness and justice and love.

That is the story of your hearts, Doris and Dorothy, and you may read that story in the changing moods of one short day. Even if you had no other proof, that alone would make life worth while. For if we once realize how old our spirits are, and what gallant adventures they have passed through, we cannot live life cheaply or meanly.

But isn't there any more definite proof than that that we go on? Yes, I think there is. With such a history behind it the human soul cannot be just an aimless accident. Surely we have not come down through all these ages, growing in strength and wonder, to end with a tummy ache in 1928. I cannot believe it.

So, when my heart grows heavy and I wonder if it's all worth while, I no longer try to lift the veil ahead. Instead I look back at the long, long trail over which we have come. And there I see a vague figure groping, rising painfully little by little, forging ahead, stumbling, falling, struggling desperately, then rising again, to new and nobler flights. That figure is myself. It is the same self which is moving inside my body now. It has survived—it still goes on—I think of that and stop my questioning.
